

The editor and wife and C. L. Blanton, Jr., and wife attended the Sixty-ninth Annual Meeting of the Missouri Press Association at the Hotel President in Kansas City Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the past week. This meeting is, perhaps, of little interest except to members and publishers. The going and coming was uneventful as beautiful weather all the way and the forest trees and bushes were tinted with fall colorings that human beings cannot produce.

Thursday afternoon and the early part of the evening was given to registering and greeting old acquaintances and forming new ones.

The Aztec room of the Hotel President was the scene of the night club entertainment that was full of pep from the start until the finish, however, at our age, we did not stay to the finish. Of the entertainers was a beautiful blond who had shape and wiggle to spare, who appeared on the floor amid a flare of trumpets, garbed in brassiers just a size or two larger than a silver dollar and a fig leaf of the size of two hands and held by a gee-string. The grandmothers present liked to have fainted, while the grandpas eyes stuck out so you could have raked them off with a stick, all of which was caused for fear the string might break when she was doing her flip flops and back action gymnastic stunts. One good woman from Northeast Missouri seemed very solicitous of her old grey headed husband, whom she tried to get to go to his room, but when we left "Willie" was still on the job. Anyway, the night club was a howling success, even if some of the wives were peeved at their husbands for trying to put the show over with a bang.

Well, the morning after was another story. Shop talks by members of the profession and round table discussions of matters of interest to publishers, then in the afternoon a visit to the William Rockhill Nelson gallery of Art. This was a most interesting trip and one that will be long remembered by those who made the trip.

The banquet at 7:00 o'clock was very pleasing to the country publishers as well as filling. This banquet and the entertainment that followed was with the compliments of the Kansas City Star, and was all that could be desired. The speakers of the evening were M. S. Murray, State Administrator of the WPA, and President Middlebush of the University of Missouri. These talks were very interesting and have to do with the enterprises of which these gentlemen head.

Saturday morning from 8 until 9 o'clock breakfast was served in the banquet room by the Kansas City Journal-Post, which was a better breakfast than the country publisher usually has.

Memorial Hour under the direction of William Southern, Jr., was very impressive and the tributes paid the dead by publisher friends were fine tributes to those who have passed on. Those present were asked to stand in silence for one minute with bowed heads in respect to the memory of Dean Walter Williams, while a soloist sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere", was especially touching as there were many silent tears fell from eyes growing weak, who wondered if they would be next to sign off with "30".

General A. W. Greeley, arctic explorer, is dead at his home in Washington, D. C., at the age of 91 years. With a party of 25 men in 1881 he attempted to reach the north pole, but his ship was crushed by ice and of the party but 7 were rescued after four years of terrible suffering. Admiral Schley brought back to civilization those who died from hardships and starvation, as well as those who lived. The dead were placed in a vat filled with alcohol in order to preserve them. The story in Washington was that cannibalism was resorted to in order that others might live. Sailors aboard the rescue ship tapped the alcohol vat and were made drunk by the preservatives for the dead bodies. The charge of cannibalism was never denied and among the archives of the government is a sealed report that gives the facts.

While in Kansas City it was our privilege and pleasure to pay our respects to Hon. Tom Pendergast, contractor and head of the Jackson Democratic Club of that city. We were accompanied by James T. Bradshaw, publisher of the Missouri Democrat, who remarked to Mr. Pendergast that his selection of Mr. Stark, to make the race for Governor on the Democratic ticket was very pleasing to the Democratic editors attending the convention. Listen to Mr. Pendergast's answer: "Jim, I did not select Mr. Stark. The people of the State selected him. He had a greater following throughout the State than all other prospective candidates put together. I am with the voters." After thanking Mr. Pendergast for his time and pledging Southeast Missouri's fifty thousand Democratic votes to Mr. Stark, we made way for others waiting to see him.

Mrs. R. A. Moore went to Moberly, Mo., Saturday for a few days' visit with relatives.

KIRK NAMED PRESIDENT OF NEW KIWANIS CLUB

George W. Kirk was elected president of the Sikeston Kiwanis club and an organization dinner meeting held Friday evening in the basement of the Christian church.

Before he moved here, Mr. Kirk was a member of the Charleston Kiwanis club for nine years, and during one term he served as lieutenant-Governor of the St. Louis division, which then included nine groups in St. Louis and three in Southeast Missouri—at Charleston, Poplar Bluff, and Bloomfield.

Other officers elected are G. J. Phillips, vice-president; G. H. Dover, secretary; and Earl Allen, treasurer. W. E. Hollingsworth, J. E. Robinson, Charles Boyce, J. S. Keil, Dr. B. F. Blanton, P. B. Bartmess, and the Rev. E. H. Orear, were chosen members of the board of directors.

Twenty-seven attended the meeting Friday, including these guests: Bob LaFollette of Chicago, a traveling representative of Kiwanis International; Charles Oliver, George Munger, Bert Smith, and C. H. Olsbaugh members of the Bloomfield Kiwanis club; and H. G. Simpson, president of the Charleston club, John Williams, secretary, and A. D. Simpson, also a member of the Charleston group.

Short talks were made by H. G. Simpson, Munger, Oliver and LaFollette, who outlined a comprehensive twelve-weeks' program for the organization here.

Members decided to convene for a dinner meeting each Thursday between 6:10 and 7:30. At this week's session, Mr. Kirk will announce the appointment of members to committees and men from the Poplar Bluff Kiwanis club will present a sponsor's program consisting of entertainment, speeches, and a report of an annual M-Kan-Ark district Kiwanis convention, which opened in Springfield, Mo., Sunday.

Kiwanis club objectives include service to underprivileged children; intelligent, aggressive, and serviceable citizenship; friendly understanding among all citizens; rural and urban; vocational guidance; and boys and girls work. Special objectives are encouragement of adequate educational facilities, especially those making for character development; simple, economical, and efficient government; directive education for the proper use of the new leisure; and support of churches in their spiritual aims.

Club policies are to foster and promote the international good will which exists between Canada and the United States; to extend Kiwanis by building new clubs and by constant emphasis upon increasing the membership of all clubs, with due regard to quality and age average; to increase activities by the participation of every Kiwanis club in the field of service suggested by all objectives and special objectives; by the continuation of five-point programs of activities formulated for club committees, and by sponsoring discussion forums for non-partisan discussion of public problems; and to inspire Kiwanians with the ideals and purposes of the organization by educating all members, new and old, in Kiwanis, by adequate leadership training, and by enriching club meetings with attractive programs and joyous fellowship.

Finally, objects of the organization, listed in article two of the constitution, are to give primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life; to encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships; to promote the adoption and the application of higher social business and professional standards; to develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive, and serviceable citizenship; to provide thru Kiwanis clubs a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service, and to build better communities; and to cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which makes possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism, and good will.

LaFollette, who remained here after Friday's meeting to help organize the group, left Saturday night to attend the district convention. A list of the charter members will be announced next week.

MOREHOUSE MEN ENTER PLEAS ON ARSON CHARGES

Punishment for Dade Bryant and Marshall Bryant, brothers, of Morehouse, was fixed when they pled guilty in the New Madrid county circuit court to arson charges Thursday, four days after they had been arrested following the destruction of a Morehouse residence by fire late Sunday night, October 13.

Dade Bryant, who is 30 years old, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. Because he is only 16 years old, Marshall Bryant was given a two-year term in the Missouri training school for boys at Booneville. The younger Bryant is accused of igniting the house with an oil-soaked shirt.

Walter Hostler, 20-year-old friend of the two who was allegedly offered $25 to burn the house, is still being held on a conspiracy charge.

The house was burned the night before it was to have been disposed of at a tax sale. Eight hundred dollars insurance was carried on it.

Unhurt When Car Leaves Road

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Richards, Sr., of New Madrid were not hurt Wednesday when the automobile in which they were driving was sideswiped by a truck on Highway 61 six miles south of Cape Girardeau. Richards was rounding a curve on his way to St. Louis when a south bound truck was driven onto the wrong side of the road. To avoid a collision, he ran his car into a ditch, damaging its left side and breaking window glasses. Mr. and Mrs. Richards went on to St. Louis after their automobile had been taken to Cape Girardeau.

5 Fined for Drunkenness

Five men were fined $3 and costs each in police court Monday morning when they pled guilty to being drunk during the week-end.

They are William Metcalf, Doff Thompson, Richard Vincent, Geo. Tuckett, and Robert Lee, who was also accused of fighting. The first three have either paid or will secure their fines. Tuckett and Lee are working on the streets.

Judge W. H. Carter had not passed Monday morning on drunkenness charges preferred against Charles Gregory and Ernest McCoy.

Markey Davis, superintendent of tools and equipment for the area WPA office, underwent an operation for acute appendicitis at a Poplar Bluff hospital Saturday night.

NYA GIVES ASSISTANCE TO 8,000 STATE STUDENTS

A gratifying response on the part of young people to the student-aid phase of the National Youth Administration program is reported by Champ Clark Buckner, Missouri state director of the NYA.

"While in a few instances quotas have not been filled," Mr. Buckner said, "schools which have more student applicants than they can place are typical of the program as a whole."

Student aid has been made available to 5266 high school students in Missouri, according to Mr. Buckner. While this number was divided into quotas last month in order to have some kind of working basis, the original numbers are subject to readjustments.

"In our endeavor to make students aid available to the greatest number possible," Mr. Buckner explained, "we intend to revise the figures soon in order to take up the slack in schools whose quotas are unfilled and to extend the aid in those which are oversubscribed. Re-allocations will be made with the view of reaching every student we possibly can."

"The number receiving college aid in Missouri," he continued, "totals 2,750, so that the student aid part of our work alone helps more than 8,000 Missouri boys and girls by providing them with work necessary for their attending school. I rather believe the fact that through the NYA 8,000 Missouri young folk who otherwise would be doing nothing are now attending school, needs no interpretation to any school official. I feel all will realize at a glance the great contribution the government is making to our state educational system and to youth itself."

All inquiries regarding the changes in quotas should be addressed to A. C. Moon, educational director of the Works Progress Administration, 208 East Capitol Avenue, Jefferson City, Missouri.—Missouri Schools.

RESETTLEMENT PROGRAM PLANNED FOR DISTRICT

Plans are now being made for the establishment of a resettlement group in Southeast Missouri, John F. Nicholson, state administrator for the federal resettlement administration, announced last week.

The exact location for the project has not yet been determined, Nicholson said, but farm families moved from unproductive tracts or sub-marginal lands, will be located before the beginning of the next season. A second group will be established in the southwest part of the state.

A survey of the resettlement administration's work in Missouri was made by Nicholson last week when he told of aid given to 4040 farmers. Of the total, only about 400 landholders have been moved from their homes to other property. The rest of the persons aided under the program have been rehabilitated.

Extending credit on long terms at a low interest rate, the government enables farmers to place themselves on self-sufficient basis. For larger loans, the administration takes what security applicants can offer; for smaller ones, only personal signatures. The government also provides machinery and necessary farm machinery besides making livestock feed loans.

On the first of this month, the administration had lent about $1,500,000, the loans averaging $350. The numbers made in Southeast Missouri counties are listed below.

Butler, 84; Cape Girardeau, 35; Dunklin, 24; Mississippi, 21; New Madrid, 11; Pemiscot, 6; Scott, 18; and Stoddard, 56.

The conference unanimously approved a plan for liquidating the $426,000 debt of Central College at Fayette by formation of a Ten Thousand club which Missouri Methodists will be asked to join and contribute $1 monthly for three and a half years.

HODGKIN'S DISEASE FATAL TO U. A. EMERSON, MORLEY

U. A. Emerson, a brother of Mrs. Fred Jones of Sikeston, died of Hodgkin's disease Friday at his home in Morley. Mr. Emerson had been ill periodically four years, but did not become seriously ill until several months ago. Recently he underwent treatment at the May clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Funeral services were held at the Morley Baptist church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the Rev. H. Patterson officiating. Burial was in the Morley cemetery.

Mr. Emerson was born in Johnson county, Illinois, on May 21, 1890, but moved to Scott county when he was two years old. During the last eleven years he had been manager of the Morley branch of the Emerson-Smith Gin Company, which operates also in Hayti, Hunterville, and Braggadocio.

In response to a protest by the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis officials are investigating an alleged speed trap on Highway 61 in Carondelet township.

"Southeast Missouri business men are going more and more to Memphis," P. G. Haag, president of the Poplar Bluff chamber, said in a telegram to the St. Louis organization. "Unless the expense of driving to St. Louis is reduced, through elimination of the speed trap in St. Louis county, we will be forced to warn motorists as a public service to avoid that city."

"I am informed organizations in Iron, Charleston, Sedalia, Columbia, and many other Missouri cities have complained of conditions in St. Louis county," Sikeston residents have also been caught in the trap.

Haag's telegram was sent after the Poplar Bluff Daily American Republic protested the trap in a front page editorial, which was followed Friday and Saturday with articles relating individuals' experiences. These included arrests for "speeding in an old model truck, reckless driving with a brand-new automobile, speeding on the highway, and running school zone safety signs."

One Poplar Bluff automobile dealer estimated that he has paid at least $100 to Carondelet constables. Usually he only handed the arresting officer $8.20, which represented a "cash bond," and went on. The $8.20, to which 50 cents is sometimes added for notarizing the bond, represents costs, the income of justices and constables.

In St. Louis, the Chamber of Commerce has pledged itself to co-operate with the Automobile Club of Missouri in an effort to eliminate any speed trap in the county. According to Gus Vahlkamp, attorney for the Automobile club, the organization has long tried to prevent St. Louis county officers from making unjustifiable arrests for fees. "The abuses have continued since 1921, when the fee system went into effect," he said, "and they will continue until it is abolished. As everybody knows, Missouri does not have a highway speed limit, but reckless and imprudent drivers are liable to arrest. It is not difficult to see the deputy constable's point of view. More than likely, he isn't a police officer in any sense of the word; he is merely a man with a deputy's badge, who, instead of following the trade in which he is nominally engaged, goes onto the highways to augment his personal income.

"We have received complaints that the motorists were charged with going 60 or 65 miles an hour, whereas they were only going 45 or 50. The driver is charged with reckless driving, and he is found guilty on the spot and told that he will be excused if costs totaling $8.20 are paid."

"This is illegal, for under Missouri statutes, no fine or costs can be collected until after an information has been issued by the prosecuting attorney's office."

Vahlkamp said drivers should not pay the costs without first getting receipts. These, he said, should be taken to the prosecuting attorney's office, where lawyers will determine the legality of the procedure. It will be difficult to secure receipts, however, he added.

Joseph Doran, constable of Carondelet township, contends his deputies are merely trying to promote safety on Highway 61, particularly since in the last two months four persons have been killed on the stretch which extends through Carondelet. "My men have instructions to arrest motorists going 55 miles an hour or more through congested areas or drivers who pass other machines on curves or hills," he said. "I'm sorry about those people from Southeastern Missouri. They drive through the thinly-populated counties and then forget to cut their speed after they enter Carondelet township, where there are 40,000 persons."

It has been suggested that Sikeston residents either trade in Memphis or go to St. Louis over Illinois highways until the speed trap is eliminated.

Sues Fraternal Groups For $4,716,326 in Taxes

R. Emmett O'Malley, state insurance superintendent, filed eleven suits Friday to recover taxes with interest totaling $4,716,326.53 against eleven fraternal beneficiary organizations, including the Women's Benefit Association, the Royal Neighbors of America, the Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World, and the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle.

The suits are the first of sixty-two Mr. O'Malley is preparing and are similar to ones filed in Arkansas and Oklahoma, where $300,000 has already been collected.

O'Malley alleges the companies are liable for the 2 per cent state tax on premiums because they are operating as "old line" insurance concerns. He contends, as well, that the companies have been competing for business with regular concerns and that they have eluded the state levy by operating under fraternal charters that carry exemption from the tax. This constitutes "unfair competition and unfair trade practice," O'Malley contends.

In his suit the insurance superintendent seeks to collect a 2 per cent tax on all premiums paid since the defendant companies were organized in Missouri, as well as 6 per cent interest on the back taxes.

The eleven suits represent more than 80 per cent of the total the state will seek, although fifty-one other actions will be instituted soon. The largest, for $1,857,445.63, was filed against the Modern Woodmen of America of Rock Island, Ill., which has operated in this state since 1897. Other defendant companies, together with amounts asked, are:

Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, Columbus, Ohio, $37,826.61.
Supreme Council Royal Arcanum, Boston, $386,754.33.
Sovereign Camp Woodmen of World, Omaha, $609,540.80.
Royal Neighbors of America, Rock Island, Ill., $341,228.79.
Ben Hur Life Association, Crawfordsville, Ind., $96,396.97.
Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, Omaha, $143,661.16.
Women's Benefit Association, Port Huron, Mich., $120,268.17.
Yeoman Mutual Life Insurance Company, Des Moines, $321,625.58.
The Maccabees, Detroit, $300,823.35.
Security Benefit Association, Topeka, Kan. $500,752.94.

SEMO TRUCKERS DISCUSS RATES, CLASSIFICATIONS

Truckers of Southeast Missouri towns met at the Marshall Hotel Saturday night for a discussion of shipping rates and classifications for the district and for a report of a recent American Trucking Association convention in Chicago, given by A. E. O'Hara.

A definite decision on rates and classifications was postponed until next Saturday, when a second meeting will be held. Truckers from Poplar Bluff, Cape Girardeau, Jackson, Charleston, and from the Potashnick and Righter companies here attended Saturday's session, as did John Powell, representing the Lions club.

Washington Current Comment

A state governor has gone on record as favoring a repeal of the income tax, never a popular measure for the reason that it comes in a lump sum and is readily recognized. Perhaps it is less dangerous than a multitude of penny taxes, collected unting under and capable of supporting unnoticed abuses. After all, the best measure of a man's ability to pay is what he earns. The time may come when it will be regarded unjust to fine a person for owning the land that yields him a sparse living or for having a few hundred dollars in savings laid up against a rainy day. The income tax belongs to a despised family but he may not be the black sheep.

The American Federation of Labor, in session at Atlantic City, announces in language not to be misunderstood, that it has no use for Communism, European dictators or participation in a so-called World War. Not everyone is on the rolls of the Federation, but if that organization is opposed to the things mentioned, there are few who, in a broader sense, do not "belong."

It is said that snipers are getting in their work in the world's latest disturbance. A sniper is a good shot who believes in individual rather than mass effort. The commanding officer of a squad of sharpshooters once was asked what he would do if attacked by a force three times the size of his: to which he responded that each of his men would shoot three times. Snipers ever have been the most effective source of protection for the oppressed minority in seasons of warfare. Perhaps the stronger powers have overlooked the service that can be rendered by the crack shot. It cannot be denied that the United States would be avoided as a hot spot if it were known that even fifty percent of the male population had the marksmanship of William Tell.

A well known publicist states that there is and can be no such thing as government control of newspapers, which is true in part only. In a kingdom, the sovereignty resides in the king. In a republic, it resides in the people. The newspapers give the people what they want. That admitted, there is a government control of the press, and that control will continue until the form of our government is changed. If newspapers do not come up to the standard, the directing power, namely the readers, have not exercised wisely the power that is vested in them.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent are family people now, a son having been born to them a few days ago. The matter might be passed over without remark if it were not for the circumstance that the infant stands seventh in line for the throne of England. Citizens of the United States generally regard the cut and dried system of passing a job along according to a rule of succession as a ridiculous arrangement, good enough for Europe but having no place here. It might be well to recall that about forty years ago Congress provided an order of succession to the presidency in the event that the Chief Executive for reasons specified, were unable to serve. If the name of the Kent child were on the American list, his chances would not be regarded as particularly good. Getting down to a concrete statement, he would have to wait until Mr. Garner, the Secretary of State, Treasury and War, the Attorney General and the Postmaster were out of the way. It is likely that the Secretary of the Navy has not wasted any time in grooming himself for the Presidency. Little Johnny Kent may profit by his example and compose himself for the quiet life of an English gentleman.

Upon looking up Detroit in the encyclopedia, all that can be found relates to commerce, population, business interests, history and geographical location. Future editions of the reference work should contain useful information; for instance, proper space should be given to the fact that the City of the Straits carried off the World Series baseball pennant in 1935.

The situation to be discussed at the meetings is one in which livestock numbers are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring the greatest increase in hog production that the country has ever seen in a similar period with consequent disastrous hog prices.

Ten such violent ups and downs, or cycles, during the past 45 years have undermined the swine industry, brought violent upswings and downswings in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power and wiped out markets for industrial products.

Not only the future of the hog industry but also the gains that have been made during the past two years are at stake in the forthcoming referendum. These two years have seen the end of ruinously low prices for corn and hogs with consequent benefits both to farmers and industrial activities. In recent months, for the first time in nearly 10 years, corn and hog prices have been at or near their fair exchange value. Despite the drought, cash farm income from hogs in 1934, including adjustment payments, was more than 37 per cent greater than in 1933 and nearly 60 per cent greater than in 1932.

ALL GROWERS MAY VOTE
Corn-Hog Board Names Polling Places for October 26

A statement telling who may vote in the corn-hog referendum Saturday, October 26 and listing polling places convenient for all, has been issued by the board of directors of the New Madrid county Corn-Hog Production Control Association as follows:

All operators and owners, or their official representatives, of farms which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote regardless of whether or not they signed a corn-hog contract in past years. Community committeemen will determine the eligibility of voters. Each eligible person is entitled to only one vote regardless of the number of farms he may own or operate, no matter where located.

Polling places conveniently located for all eligible voters throughout the county have been announced by the board as follows: Matthews, Risco, Gideon, Portageville, New Madrid, Parma, Kewanee, East Prairie, Canalou, Libbourn, all on October 26.

The polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. At the end of the voting ballots will be counted by the committeemen placed in charge by the county association and the results will be sent by messenger to the county board at the office of County Agent Broom so that the vote for the entire county may be wired to state headquarters at Columbia by Monday noon. The state results, in turn will be wired to Washington by Tuesday.

The corn and hog industry, on Saturday, October 26, will express its choice of continuing or discontinuing a production adjustment program designed to hold corn acreage down to a safe level and preventing an excess increase in hog numbers. The alternative is to release control both on corn acreage and hog production at the risk that during the next three years the increase in hog production from the 1935-36 level will be greater than for any period in the country's history with consequent disastrous hog prices.

Chili Pepper Powder Is High in Vitamin A

It is through liberal use of chili pepper powder as a seasoning that Mexicans get much of their vitamin-A requirement, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. Mexican diet, because of its apparent lack of vitamin A, was a puzzle to nutritionists until someone suggested chili powder. Most peppers are known to be good sources of vitamin A.

For vitamin tests, the Bureau used the particular variety of pepper (chili ancho Colorado) most extensively dried and ground for chili powder. These peppers formerly were imported into this country from Mexico, but are now successfully grown in Southern California. They do not do well, however, in New Mexico and Texas.

Preliminary tests indicate the vitamin A content of air-dry chili pepper is very high—two or three times that of a good grade of butter.

MOSES UPSHARD PAYNE, PHILANTHROPIST

"Few careers, however prominent, in the history of the State of Missouri have been more eminently successful or useful than that of Moses Upshard Payne," whose foresight in predicting financial trends enabled him to amass a fortune and to give generously to religion and education. One hundred and twenty-eight years ago this week, Moses P. Payne was born in Woodford county, Kentucky, on October 25, 1807. At the age of seventeen he was converted to the Methodist faith and when twenty-one he received a license to preach. Throughout his life he was one of the most enthusiastic of lay preachers. Payne devoted his early years to learning the trade of cotton-spinning and followed this occupation in this native county. Later he conceived the idea, far in advance of others of his time, that the manufacturing advantages of this industry would be found at the source of the greatest supply. He determined to seek his fortune in the Southern states where "cotton was king."

During the '40's Payne made his home in New Orleans, where his industry, economy and prudence soon made him a prosperous and influential factor in the cotton interests of the South. While in New Orleans, Payne early foresaw war between the North and the South and began gradually disposing of his property in this section. His money was transferred to landed interests in the Northwest and to the Missouri river bottoms lands in southwestern Iowa, which he bought at an exceedingly low price. These lands, little in demand at the time, later became some of the most desired in the United States, and Payne's fortune reached almost $1,000,000.

In 1867, Mr. Payne, after a second marriage, moved to Boone county, where he became one of the most reliable and dependable of its business men. He, with Dr. Jewell, a Baptist minister, built a union church where both Baptist and Methodist denominations met. Although the congregation was small and poor, Payne's contributions enabled it to become a successful organization. Thru-out the remaining years of his life Payne contributed largely to churches of various denominations and it was said of him that no preacher with a worth cause appealed to him in vain.

During the years of Payne's residence in Columbia, the Howard Female College at Fayette was forced to sell its buildings for debt, and Mr. Payne generously came to the aid of the school. He bought the buildings "to have and to hold for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the State of Missouri, subject to the rules and regulations of the Missouri Conference of said church."

Various other funds were donated by Payne to the college and in his honor in 1892, the name was changed to Howard-Payne College. Later, Central College at Fayette received several gifts from him.

The last years of Mr. Payne's life were spent on his estate in Iowa, where he died on August 9, 1895. Before his death he gave to the Payne Institute of Augusta, Georgia, a school for the education of colored preachers and teachers, an endowment fund of $25,000, and a like fund to the Methodist Church Extension Board. Of him it was said that "as a business man he was capable of managing large interests. He conducted his business on Bible principles; he defrauded no man, he oppressed none, and as a preacher he was strong and faithful."

GAS TAX COLLECTIONS SHOW BIG INCREASE

There is no better business barometer than that of gasoline tax collections, and judging by this yardstick, recovery is evident in Missouri.

Gasoline tax collections during August of this year, according to a recent statement by Roy H. Cherry, State Oil Inspector, amounted to $1,004,472—the first time since the motor vehicle fuel tax law became effective in 1925 that a single month's revenue has reached the million dollar mark. Inspector Cherry discloses in his statement that collections for this August exceeded the corresponding month of last year by $100,777.

Rev. Charles N. Harford, 97, preached a sermon in the Baptist church at New Lexington, O., last Sunday. Unusual not because of his age, but because he was pastor of the church 69 years ago and this was his first homecoming. He served as a chaplain during the Civil War, and the New Lexington Church was his first charge after being discharged from army service.

SYNOPSIS

Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division, on the Eastern Front, is captured by Kurdish irregulars, but rescued when the supposed leader of the Kurds turns out to be a British secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." When they are steering the Balkans, Andrews battles with Smith when he sees him kill Cullen, an enemy spy, in cold blood. Andrews' leg is broken and he is sent to a clearing hospital. Smith disappears.

CHAPTER IV

After weeks of suffering in the mountains and at the Medical Clearing Station Andrews eventually reached the British hospital in Cairo. He was there for months, his broken leg necessitated an operation. When he was well enough to be up and about again his injury still caused him to limp badly.

During his stay at the hospital Andrews had fallen in love with his nurse, pretty blonde Rosemary Hayden. On the day he was to be dismissed he cornered the girl who had been trying to evade him, and followed her along the hospital corridor as she delivered medical supplies to the various wards.

"Didn't you get my message?" he demanded.

"Yes. Noon...same place, garden...urgent," she teased.

"Why didn't you come?"

"Was it really so urgent?" She picked up a tray and entered a room as she spoke. Andrews poked around the medical supplies until he caught the eye of a stern-faced nurse. Then he limped away to come back as the girl returned.

"Yet, it was urgent," he persisted. "I'm well. They're kicking me out of here today. I suppose I should be glad," he added after a pause. "It's your fault that I'm not."

"You really ought to go now," said the girl.

"Not unless you promise to dine with me tonight."

"But I can't. Nurses are not allowed..."

"At the Terrace Hotel," he continued implacably. "Please. Couldn't you try?"

"Possibly," she smiled, as she picked up another tray.

That evening found them seated face to face across a table in the dining room of the Hotel Terrace. They had just finished dinner and Rosemary was looking about her, enjoying the forbidden surroundings and the pleasant music.

"Nurses aren't allowed to do this sort of thing, you know, even with heroes," she smiled. "They're not allowed to wear evening clothes or dine in public with officers. Or dance..."

Taking the hint, he rose and they swept out on the dance floor. But a few moments later, while the orchestra was in the midst of playing "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," Andrews stopped.

"Let's go outside for a while," he suggested. "Leg's hurting."

But on the balcony, in the brilliant moonlight, he confessed that his leg was all right after all.

"I was lying," he admitted. "I wanted to be alone with you."

back against his arms. But only for a moment...then she ceased to resist. Very slowly, her arms came up until one hand rested on his shoulder while the other pressed the back of his head.

"It's my fault! My own fault!" She cried at last. Tears were in her voice as well as her eyes. "Will you please take me back now?" She put one white hand to her forehead as he released her.

"No! I want to know what on earth's upset you."

"I'll tell you, but I've got to humiliate myself to do it. I was miserable because I've let myself fall in love with you." She turned and started quickly away, but he caught her arm.

"What do you want from me?" she cried desperately.

"You," he answered. "Miss Hayden...may I present Mr. Andrews? He wants to marry you."

"Didn't you get my message?" he demanded

"Oh...I see." The girl seemed suddenly frightened. "I think we'd better go back."

"No."

"Please, Michael."

"Why are you so...so tragic suddenly?" he asked, barring her way.

"Michael, I hope you..."

"I hope you haven't misunderstood," he finished for her.

"Michael, I'm afraid you've..."

"I'm afraid you've taken too much for granted," he teased.

Then, catching her almost roughly by the shoulder, he added. "No, that's not true, and you know it."

His arms tightened their hold. He bent his head and kissed her, holding her powerless against him. A small, stifled sound came from her and she resisted him, straining

He was trying to lighten the situation.

"My dear," she murmured as if to herself as she stared at him, intensely moved. She put out a hand as if to touch him, then let it drop to her side. "My dear. You can't have me...I'm not my own. If I were..." She broke off abruptly.

"What do you mean?" he demanded harshly.

"I'm...I'm rather a fraud," she stammered. "You see, I'm married."

"Oh...I see!" His face became wooden and expressionless and he spoke with an elaborately casual tone. "Well, that, so to speak, is that! Did you say you had to be getting back?"

also be illumined with a large beacon and with border lights. A water main might possibly be extended to it.

Before work could be undertaken, however, the field would have to be in the name of the city, which has an option to purchase the land for $50 an acre, or $8000.

As in the case of the airport improvement project, for which the city would be required to pay an amount equaling 10 per cent of the federal contribution, Sikeston's share of the jail construction and whiteway extension projects would probably also be 10 per cent. Councilmen will learn for certain before they endorse the undertakings since the city is now scarcely able to donate funds for additional WPA work.

BLUE RHYTHM BOYS TO PLAY AT LIONS DANCE

Leon Jones and his Blue Rhythm boys will play at the Lions club Halloween dance for the benefit of underprivileged children on Thursday night, October 31, M. M. Beck announced Saturday. The dance will be held at the armory from 9:30 until 1 o'clock.

Tickets of $1 for couples or stags, tax included, will be sold by all Lions club members, and since all profits will be spent on Christmas gifts for Sikeston's needy children, persons solicited will probably subscribe whether or not they plan to attend the dance.

Funds for the Lions Christmas activities are raised each fall with Halloween and Thanksgiving dances, the latter scheduled for November 28 this year.

For ten years, Lions have gone out in trucks Christmas mornings to distribute candies, oranges, and toys to underprivileged children and have donated canned goods for church food baskets, as well.

Work was started last week on a new office building for the Dexter branch of the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company. The company bought a lot two years ago, but construction has been delayed because of unfavorable business conditions.

MISS CAROLINE HESS TO SPEAK AT M. E. MEETING

Miss Caroline Hess will appear on the program of a district Methodist women's missionary society meeting at the Centenary church in Cape Girardeau Thursday. Miss Hess will speak at the morning session on "Missionary Education of Children."

The program will be opened with devotions led by Mrs. R. H. Daugherty, wife of the pastor of the Centenary congregation. After roll call of societies has been answered with two-minute reports, Mrs. G. R. Allison of Poplar Bluff, the conference treasurer, will discuss district finances.

Miss Hess' talk will follow greetings from the Farmington district, given by Mrs. W. F. Talley of Fredericktown, and will precede a vocal solo by Mrs. M. E. Leming, Jr., an address by Miss Mary Blackford, a missionary to China, and a prayer by the Rev. J. C. Montgomery, pastor of the New McKendree church in Jackson.

Mrs. O. H. Duggins of Fredericktown will open the afternoon session at 1:15 with a hymn and a devotional. The program will include a talk on "The Green Light" by Mrs. E. A. Kitchell of St. Louis, conference secretary;

music; brief speeches by Miss Roena Shaner of Jackson on temperance, Mary Lee Reed of Cape Girardeau on peace, and the Rev. Dawson C. Bryan, presiding elder of the district, on rural development; committee reports; and a prayer by the Rev. Mr. Daugherty.

District zone chairmen are Mrs. H. S. Holley of Bertrand for Mississippi county; Mrs. O. H. Bowers of Portageville, New Madrid county; Mrs. George Arnold of Formelt, Scott county; and Mrs. D. I. L. Seabaugh of Jackson, Cape Girardeau county.

Provost Murray, a lay preacher in the Scottish Free Presbyterian church at Glasgow Scotland, has run afoul of a church law against dancing which dates back to 1649; only 28 years after the voyage of the Mayflower. He was suspended from ministerial privileges for six months, because he permitted dancing at a children's party in his home.

NYA YOUTH MAY BE GIVEN WORK ON CITY PROJECTS

At a meeting Thursday night, councilmen considered a suggestion that the city use young persons eligible for aid under the National Youth Administration to undertake municipal improvement projects under the direction of paid city employees. The city's cost for the work would be little or nothing.

Information concerning the proposed NYA program affecting cities was sent to Dr. G. W. Presnell by George A. Spencer, a consultant field representative of the American Municipal Association, working with the Missouri Association of Mayors and Other Municipal officers under the state NYA.

Spencer included in his letter suggested subjects for the city's betterment, to be undertaken with NYA help, and after a discussion, councilmen voted to apply for approval of three projects, required to assist financially.

They are for revising city ordinances; making a city map showing the distribution of electric service, the location of users and non-users, light poles, street lights, and transformers; and making a city map showing the sewer system location, the size and depth of pipes, connections, and joints for future connections.

Under apprenticeship plan, the National Youth Administration intends to give youth of relief families part-time employment in city and county administrative offices throughout the state. A large fund has been set aside to help young people between 18 and 25 years old. NYA officials have advised city officials, however, that persons aided must be given instruction in the functions of each office and not be permitted merely to do special and relatively uninformative clerical work.

At their meeting Thursday, councilmen also discussed the Sikeston breakdown on proposed statewide WPA projects but decided to postpone making a decision concerning it until a meeting later with C. L. Blanton, Jr., ninth area WPA director.

Under the project, $10,000 may be set aside for constructing a woman's jail and painting the interior and exterior of the city hall; $18,433 for extending the city lighting system and $73,000 for improvement of the municipal airport.

According to an earlier report from John J. Miller of Illmo, Sikeston had been allocated only $20,000 for air field work. Hubert Boyer, a councilman and a member of the board of aeronautics, said, however, that the city may have $73,000 if it contributes about $7500 as its share for the project. Work at the field would include construction of 1000-foot-wide blacktop runways diagonally across the field from the southeast to the northwest corners and from the southwest to the northeast, as well as an additional runway north and south along the drainage ditch on the east side. Further, workmen would

If you have not, give it your attention at once. It is seldom ever that a city the size of Sikeston is honored with a meeting of this magnitude and each and every one of us should do our part toward entertaining guests within our city.

Dispatches from Kansas City state that Tom Pendergast, head of the Democratic Kansas City organization, has decided to throw his support to Major Lloyd Stark of Louisiana for governor. This, it is believed, was a graceful yielding to the logic of a sentiment which made it impossible that another candidate could win over Stark in the next primary. In every part of the state there was a large and militant demand for the Louisiana man. Everything indicated that he was the popular choice. Northeast Missouri was a unit in his favor, not simply because he was a Northeast Missouri man but because he was known to be just the type of candidate the times demand, a man who will measure up to the very best standards that are associated with the office of governor of Missouri. —Paris Appeal.

Visits with Major Stark, Senator Truman and M. S. Murray in the banquet rooms at Kansas City were enjoyed. Major Stark stated he was taking time out now to attend to business, but early in the coming campaign would make an active canvass of every section of the state. Senator Truman stated he would be in this section soon on an inspection tour and would call at The Standard office to see if any new works of art had been added to our gallery. He was given the assurance of a welcome and he could see for himself that in some objects the Nelson Gallery had nothing on The Standard gallery. IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Louisa Early Meys, whom the death angels called 4 years ago, October 18, 1931. In the Evergreen cemetery Only a few miles away Lies our own dear mother Sleeping beneath the flowers. You never complained of your trouble Always thinking of our welfare Trying to shield and protect us From every worry and care. A happy home we once enjoyed How sweet the memory still But death has left a loneliness The world can never fill. And the face we love is now laid low

Your loving voice is stilled The hand so often clasped in ours Lies low in death's cold chill. O we have not forgot you, mother Never shall sweet memories fade Of the one we loved so dearly And tried so hard to save Loving thoughts will always wander

To the spot where you are laid. We think of you in silence No eye may see us weep, But many tears are shed While others are asleep. Now the dear old home has lost Its charm for us, one dear form Is absent, mother, kind and true. She is sleeping now with other loved ones too.

What a happy meeting over in that land.

Arrangements have again been made, as in past years, for the handling of migratory waterfowl shooting on the Mississippi River, whereby licenses from any one of the states of Missouri, Illinois and Iowa will be recognized throughout the entire extent of the river, provided the licenses do not in any case go upon lands taxed by or attached to either of the states from which they have no licenses. Last year this agreement had to be altered to some extent due to the variance in open seasons in the three states. This year, however, the season is identical in each of the states.—October 21 to November 19. Hunters, however, must also be in possession of a federal duck stamp and must shoot from the banks of the state in which they hold a license, keeping in mind the 100 foot vegestation regulation. Under the plan hunters may move from bars and islands on any part of the river.

Among the various publications coming to my attention today was a copy of the U. S. Army Recruiting News, published by the Recruiting Publicity Bureau, Governors Island, N. Y.

The magazine, according to its masthead, is published "in the interest of recruitment for the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, the ROTC and the CMTC. Between its covers—16 pages in all—there is found news and semi-technical articles covering completely this wide field. In addition to the items dealing with up-to-the-minute affairs of the military service, there are also historical articles of interest to the general public. All in all, the reader may gain from this magazine an accurate and interesting picture of the Army, past and present.

All the work on this magazine including writing, art, make-up and printing, is done by regular army personnel, officers and enlisted men.

SOFT CORN AS FEED

Selecting Grains Presents Unusual Problems This Winter

The problems of selection and use of feeding grains this winter differ somewhat from those of a normal season says L. A. Weaver of the Missouri College of Agriculture. This is because of the reduction in corn acreage and the fact that much of the corn crop will not fully mature. Perhaps the first question

UNUSUAL FACTS REVEALED

—by "Movie Spotlight"

which occurs concerning this winter's feed problem is the utilization of soft or immature corn. In general, corn is considered soft if, because of high water content, it will not keep when cribbed. Since corn which contains around 25 per cent water may be satisfactorily cribbed, corn containing 35 per cent water may be considered as fairly soft, that containing 45 per cent water as soft, while corn which is 50 per cent or more water would be considered very soft. Early feeding of soft corn, while its quality is still good, is desirable if maximum returns are to be secured. With proper management soft corn may be self-fed to fattening cattle and hogs, or if not self-fed then it should be offered the animals at more frequent intervals than is ordinarily done if maximum gains are desired. Soft corn containing some mold may also be utilized for feeding cattle and hogs, but should not be fed to horses or young sheep.

Judging from inquiries reaching the College from farmers, a relatively large amount of barley is being used as a corn substitute for feeding all kinds of livestock at the present time. Many of these letters indicate that some difficulty is being experienced in getting hogs to consume ground barley in amounts sufficient to produce satisfactory gains. Where such a condition exists the grain from which the meal was made was probably blighted or scabby. At other experiment stations it has been found that while blighted barley gives about the same results as the same grade of normal barley, when fed to all kinds of cattle, sheep, and poultry; animals with simple stomachs, such as the horse and pig, react unfavorably to blighted or scabby barley.

The Secretary of War Speaks in the presence of the Emperor at a dinner in Japan, and the report of the affair contains no intimation that the Secretary was in any wise disturbed. The population of the world includes a noble company of martyrs who have fidgeted through a meal of victuals oppressed by the thought that they had a speech to make afterwards. It must be great to be Secretary of War, but most of us would be wherein the prospect of having to satisfied with that equanimity put on an after-dinner talk holds no terror.

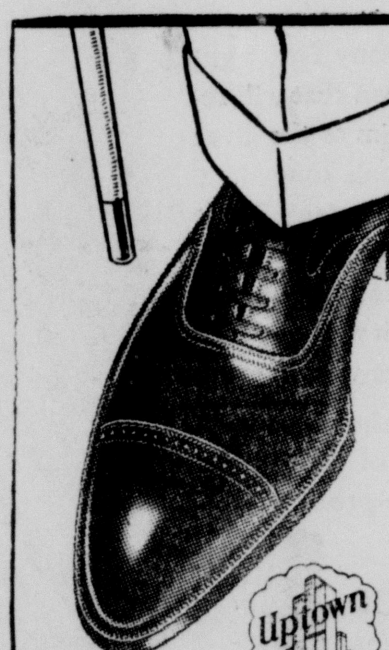

Mark Twain once said that foreigners did not know how to spell. One of the bad things about a foreign war is that it is sure to sprinkle the newspaper page with weird looking words.

IT'S TRUE!

By Wiley Padan

"IT'S TRUE! that if a young art student hadn't bought a cheap camera to help himself study drawing, the screen world might not have had 'Metropolis', 'Variety' and others of the brilliant European pictures that revolutionized photography," says artist Wiley Padan. "This was how Karl Freund, distinguished Bohemian director, and pioneer of fantastic photography," whose most recent work 'Mad Love' with Peter Lorre, first became interested in pictures.

Possibility Must Be Considered in Corn-Hog Referendum

Welcome as it is after the feed shortage of the drought, cheap corn in plentiful supplies already is looming as a major threat to the stability of the hog industry, according to reports which county Agent Furry has received from state headquarters of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

By 1937 under a system of uncontrolled production the supply of corn threatens to be 50 per cent more for each hog than the average for five years preceding.

1936. This would set the stage for one of the greatest increases in pork production that the country has even seen, according to the report.

The decision as to what shall farmers themselves Saturday, October 26, in the corn-hog referendum when they vote "Yes" or "No" on the question: Do you favor a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires November 30, 1935?

This year's harvest, according to a September 1 government crop report, will be about 2,184,000,000 bushels of corn as compared with only 1,377,000,000 bushels last year.

Do You Know How to Make Your Car Last Longer?

"Good old Quaker State!" writes a famous journalist. "Our four-year-old demi-sedan is still going strong . . . speedometer registering 66,875 miles . . . and it has had nothing but Quaker State in its crankcase."

"At 33,000 miles, carbon was removed, and spark-plugs changed, for the first time."

"At 42,000 miles, the car was overhauled, a micro-meter officially put on the crankshaft. There had been no measurable wear. At 66,000 miles, carbon was removed again, and a third set of sparkplugs installed. Every time the gas-man asks: 'How's the oil?' I look at the speedometer, and tell him exactly how many more miles I have to go, without adding or refilling. 'How's that?' the gas man asks. 'I use nothing but Quaker State', my answer is."

Learn how to lengthen car life. Use Quaker State. What Counts is:

THAT EXTRA QUART OF LUBRICATION IN EVERY GALLON

YOU SAVE MONEY 3 WAYS with QUAKER STATE

25 Percent More Lubricant

Ordinary motor oil averages one quart of "light-end" compression cylinders . . . blows out of exhausts. compression cylinders . . . blows out of exhausts. Quaker State removes this "light-end" material . . . at the refinery . . . before it reaches your motor. Every gallon is 4 quarts of motor lubricant, net. You pay for nothing that blows away.

Less Costly Repairs

Hot engine, or cold engine . . . Quaker State stays in your motor, protects every moving part. Cheap oils cannot be trusted to lubricate fast-flying motor parts. Valves carbonize. Piston rings leak. Cylinder walls score. Bearings burn out. Aside from smashups, the costliest repairs result from poor lubrication. Quaker State saves you repair costs.

—3—
More Car Mileage

Motor life depends on correct lubrication. Why be satisfied with ordinary results when increased mileage and longer motor life can so surely be obtained through consistent Quaker State lubrication?

and an average production of more than 2 1-2 billion bushels during the five years from 1928 to 1932. Unfortunately extreme feed shortages as a result of the 1934 draught forced farmers to strip their herds and flocks to the smallest number of animals in 34 years. Consequently the corn supply per hog during the coming feeding season will be 1 1-2 times as large as the average for the 1928-32 period and larger than in any other year since the war.

With a fairly large corn crop in prospect and a comparatively small number of animals to utilize it, the trend of corn prices will be downward as now corn becomes available this winter. The farm price of the new crop may be expected to average well below parity.

If acreage is not held in check in 1936, it is likely that farmers will harvest more than 105 1-2 million acres of corn. The acreage this year, for instance, is nearly 94 million, in spite of the fact that contract signers retired about 11 1-2 million acres from corn production. In 1932 and 1933 the annual harvest exceeded 105 1-2 million acres. With average yields next year an uncontrolled acreage of corn would mean another harvest of more than 2 1-2 billion bushels.

Since drought-stricken herds and flocks cannot be rebuilt enough by 1936 to bring the grain supply per animal down to normal, the demand for corn for feeding will be far below average. With no adjustment program, even lower corn prices may be expected during the 1936-37 winter feeding season than is anticipated this winter.

Invariably in the past cheap corn has led to such a rapid upswing in hog production that ruinously low prices and distressed liquidation always have followed. Without a program low hog prices may be expected beginning in 1937.

BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE WILL BE HELD IN 1937

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The national executive council of the Boy Scouts of America voted last night to hold a national scouting jamboree in 1937.

The jamboree will substitute for the one scheduled this year at Washington and postponed by President Roosevelt because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in the area.

Walter W. Head of St. Louis, president of the boy scouts, announced that George W. Olmstead of Ludlow, Pa., had been named to the executive council and that Dr. William C. Menninger of Topeka, Kan., had been placed on the committee of awards.

CHEVROLET COMPANY COMPLETES $25,000,000 EXPANSION PROGRAM

M. E. Coyle, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, revealed today that the company has completed during the current year a $25,000,000 program of plant expansion, increasing the production capacity of the ten Chevrolet assembly plants in the United States by 25 per cent, and raising the capacity of the company's own manufacturing plants, devoted to making of axles, engines, transmissions and other units, to enable them to keep pace with the enlarged assembly plants.

The expenditure of $25,000,000 was made for the erection and equipment of new buildings at assembly and manufacturing plants, and for the re-equipment and complete modernization of existing buildings. With few exceptions, most of the operations were undertaken and carried out without announcement to the public, the list of completed improvements given out today being the first publication of details of the completion of the company's 1935 program.

Announcement of the virtual expansion plans was made by Mr. Coyle to a group of newspaper automobile editors today as incidental to his statement that all ten Chevrolet assembly plants have been changed over within the last several weeks to produce new models of the Master Deluxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 to be introduced in November, and that the manufacturing plants and assembly plants are already producing the new cars.

Production is increasing daily, Mr. Coyle said, and the company will have built an ample supply of the new models to stock its 10,000 dealers with the 1936 cars before their introduction early next month, and to insure immediate delivery to retail purchasers on and after announcement day. Increased schedules have been set for November and December, in order to replenish dealer's stocks as rapidly as is necessary to provide for quick deliveries to purchasers.

While the great part of Chevrolet's expenditure of $25,000,000 was to attain increased capacity in preparation for an expected increase in demand during the coming year, Mr. Coyle declared that during the current year the company had carried out a comprehensive program of construction at assembly plants for the purpose of equalizing employment. This has been accomplished by providing greatly enlarged storage space at the plants, to receive and hold manufactured units until they are needed in assembly.

With the new storage facilities, plants will be enabled to spread their production more evenly over the year, building up the stock parts during months that normally are regarded as slack production periods, and drawing on these reserve stocks during peak production periods. Thus, during the coming winter, it is expected that regular employment will run higher than heretofore, since the manufacturing plants will be creating parts and units that may be drawn upon during the annual spring peak season. The storage capacity now available will serve not only to ease the seasonal employment problem, but also to prevent car shortages or delayed deliveries.

Every one of Chevrolet's ten assembly plants, situated at ten cities that serve as distribution centers to supply 10,000 car dealers, shared in the company's improvement program. Two major projects common to all ten plants were the installation of costly equipment for a newly developed cromodizing system of treating sheet metal to prevent rust, and for an elaborate system of recirculating lacquer and enamel, which is continuously pumped from mixing tanks through a circuit of conduits serving all the spray booths and dipping tanks with a constant supply of material.

Detroit and Michigan shared largely in the Chevrolet expenditure of millions of dollars for increased capacity of manufacturing plants. Among the principal developments were the following:

Detroit Gear and Axle plant—Building addition 160 by 200, and equipment, for the production of sheet metal stampings.

Detroit Forge plant—Extension of boiler and turbine rooms of the power house, 10,000 sq. ft., and equipment with a new turbine generator, high pressure steam generating units, condensers, etc., building extension, 60 by 125, to house axle shaft rolls; new building, 30 by 50 feet, for roll die room; new building, 25 by 40, for die room heat treating.

Bay City (Mich.) Small Parts plant—Two additions, total 57,000 sq. ft., to increase production capacity, and to take over the manufacture of parts formerly produced at Flint.

Saginaw (Mich.) Grey Iron foundry—Two additions, 29 by 400 and 42 by 180, to enlarge core room; addition, 80 sq. ft., to maintenance and pattern shop building.

Saginaw Service Parts Manufacturing plant—Entire plant, 50,000 sq. ft., formerly used by the Saginaw Motor plant, reconditioned and equipped with machinery for the manufacture of service parts, to relieve the Flint Motor plant and the Detroit Gear and Axle plant.

Saginaw Parts Manufacturing plant—Former General Motors Crankshaft plant, 160 by 690, taken over and equipped for manufacture of production parts; new building, 700 by 84, erected to house forge and bumper plant.

Muncie (Ind.) Transmission plant—Plant of Muncie Products, 250,000 sq. ft., taken over and equipped with machinery for the manufacture of transmissions.

Flint (Mich.) plant—New hospital building, 48 by 80 feet.

Besides the construction and equipment of the buildings listed, Chevrolet carried out a systematic program of modernization in plants in these and other cities, replacing old machinery with new, and installing up-to-date conveyor systems, new material handling methods and other improvements to give better results and to increase production capacity.

Among the assembly plants, the greatest development of the year was the completion of the new plant at Baltimore, Md., opened with public ceremonies last April. In addition to the general improvements carried out at all assembly plants, to better working conditions and increase production, Chevrolet enlarged assembly plants in six of their ten cities. New buildings are as follows:

Flint, Mich.—New Fisher body storage building, 95,000 sq. ft.

St. Louis, Mo.—Addition to parts building, 40,000 sq. ft., two-story building addition, 79, by 80, for office and body storage; new loading dock, 40 by 100.

Atlanta, Ga.—Addition to parts building, 60,000 sq. ft.

Kansas City, Mo.—New parts building, 60,000 sq. ft., addition to Chevrolet wing, 33,000 sq. ft.; addition to Fisher Body wing, 86,000 sq. ft., addition for storage, 40,000 sq. ft.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Storage balcony, 28,000 sq. ft.; Fisher Body storage building, 120,900 sq. ft.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Extension of second floor for storage, 6,000 sq. ft.

All the foregoing operations are virtually complete, and most of them are already in operation; those not yet in use will be ready for induction before the end of the year.

At Indianapolis, one of the largest projects of the program has just got under way with the beginning of work on an immense new plant for the manufacture of commercial bodies. The new buildings, 600 by 400, including a power house, body building will continue in the remaining half of the present plant until the first stage of the new operation has been completed. The remainder of the old plant will then be razed, and a new building 720 by 320, will be erected to complete the new plant. The present office building will be retained.

Due to the seemingly prevailing idea that dogs could not be used this season in hunting of quail, Joe E. Green, Chief of Wardens, said this week that there has been no change in quail hunting regulations and that birds may be hunted with dogs as in past seasons. The season on quail shooting in Missouri is from November 10 to December 31. The bag limit is ten per day and fifteen in possession. Generally the outlook for a successful quail shooting is bright.

Hollywood Star-Lites

By Chuck Cardoch

Hollywood, California, October 21.—When Irving G. Thalberg announced he would produce "Romeo and Juliet" it failed to surprise Fritz Leiber, perhaps the foremost contemporary exponent of Shakespeare on the stage.

"Inevitably," Leiber said yesterday, "Shakespeare must follow Dickens to the screen. The way has been paved for the great things of dramatic literature. It is only a question of time before other Shakespearean works will be filmed."

Leiber disbanded his own theatrical road show company in Los Angeles a few months ago and is making his motion picture debut in "Tale of Two Cities," the powerful Dickens novel. He believes just like yours truly, that the filming of "David Copperfield" marked a tremendous advancement for the screen—not especially because the picture was so successful but because it established a demand for literary classics in screen form.

However, I believe that the idea of motion pictures turning exclusively to such classical works is ridiculous. There always must be a balance in motion picture fare, and modern stories will continue to predominate.

STAR-LITES: With word coming this week that Myrna Loy will be Billie Burke in "The Great Ziegfeld," reunites the most popular "married couple" of the screen and creates one of the outstanding histrionic trios in films.

William Powell—Myrna Loy—Louise Rainer. It will give us a chance to see which of the two wears the best with Powell. This will be one of the most elaborate musicals ever staged for pictures, and the cast literally outshines anything in the past. Besides the three mentioned above, there are: Virginia Bruce, Harriet Hoctor, Frank Morgan, Ann Pennington, Reginald Owen, Nat Pendleton, Ray Bolger and Gilda Gray.

CASTING for "Romeo and Juliet" has begun and as yet no Romeo has been signed, but your correspondent has reason to believe that, handsome, young actor, Robert Taylor, who really made the pulses of the ladies fluctuate too rapidly in "Broadway Melody of 1936," will play Romeo. Edna Mae Oliver has been chosen to play the role of Juliet's maid, Robert Taylor has just been signed for the main part in "Three Live Ghosts," a story dealing with the lives of three enlisted men who escaped from a German prison camp and make their way back to London to find themselves officially "dead". For some reason they decide to remain dead. Some fun, eh?

FASHION LITES: "Storm signals ahead" says William Lambert, designer for 20th Century-Fox. His warning is not at all of the weather but of the color trend of the moment. "There hasn't been so much experimentation in color in many seasons, and while this is always an interesting and stimulating influence in fashion."

"We have quickly grown used to the combination of 'strong colors' such as revolutionary reds and blues due to the martial movement in so many parts of the world; now comes the tri-colored costume, increasing in favor, which is also an expression of a flag conscious world. It is fairly easy to combine two colors harmoniously and artistically, but the use of three must be considered carefully or many women will look like she is flying a pennant!"

"For instance, consider the possibilities of a hostess gown combining celestial blue and sapphire blue on which bloom velvet flowers of an American beauty shade; or what could be done with ice blue and pale yellow velvet strongly highlighted with almond green to make a Director's evening gown?"

DO YOU KNOW: Jean Harlow's blonde hair was once considered "not photographic," by a comedy producer who made her wear a black wig?

ON THE SET: Greta Garbo's true name is Greta Gustafsson. Yet for ten years she has been known as Garbo. In all this time, few if any persons have known why she took the name of Garbo. During the past summer when she visited her home in Sweden, an ambitious Swedish newspaperman, unable to win an interview with her, spent the day tracking down the origin of her name. Garbo. Although everyone knew it was bestowed upon her by Maunitz Stiller, her first director and discoverer, the meaning of the word has been a mystery for ten years. But a diligent search through mythology has now revealed that "Garbo is a Norwegian word meaning 'A mysterious being that comes out at night to dance in the moonlight.'"

LEGIONNAIRES DRANK 142,152 BOTTLES OF ANHEUSER-BUSCH BEER

Figures compiled today by Anheuser-Busch for the American Legion revealed that delegates to the recent Legion convention drank 142,152 bottles of beer in four days, as guests of the brewery. A bar 800 feet long and the services of seventy-five bartenders and forty assistants were required to accommodate the thirty Legionnaires and their friends. All together, 110,000 persons visited this bar and were taken thru the plant, which is the world's largest brewery.

Anheuser-Busch were prepared to serve even more beer, but two factors held the consumption to 142,152 bottles. One was that on the fourth day rain, which held the attendance down to 5,000, drove the visitors indoors, but even then 13,200 bottles were consumed. The second was that the seventy-five bartenders were constantly running out of glasses many of which were kept as souvenirs the minute they were empty. 15,000 glasses were ordered to take care of the visitors. Of the 15,000, 13,000 were carried home as mementoes of the party. Two dance orchestras played continuously, keeping the gayety of the visitors at fever pitch.

Brewery officials were gratified to report that there was not the slightest evidence of disorder at any time during the American Legion's visit.

A new application of just doing it on "general principles" comes out of Oakland, Cal. Irked by continual cries of "robber, robber," the umpire of a baseball game decided to investigate. Mounting to the top row of grand stand seats, with the cries growing louder and louder, he found the culprit he sought. "I was just doing it on general principles," the man said. He was blind.

At last a new use for the bodies of old automobiles. An Atlantic City organization of fishermen has petitioned the War Department to allow the dumping of three automobile bodies at the site of a new artificial fishing bank, on the theory that marine growth will form on them and the vegetation will attract fish for feeding and spawning.

ACCORDING TO STORY, LONG WAS KILLED BY BODY GUARD, NOT WEISS

A most interesting story of the manner in which Senator Huey Long of Louisiana met death comes to Kansas City by way of Virginia, where a visiting Kansas City woman received the purported details from a relative in New Orleans.

According to this story, Long had determined to get rid of Circuit Judge C. H. Pavy, father-in-law of Dr. C. A. Weiss, Jr., the man said to have shot the Senator by reshaping the judicial district so that he could not be re-nominated. It is related that Long also conceived the idea of undermining the standing of the jurist by spreading the report that he was of Negro descent.

When Dr. Weiss became aware of this purpose, it is said, he determined to see Long and ask that he refrain from thus stigmatizing the family. The doctor had two children and a story that their grandfather was a Negro would, the doctor felt, reflect seriously on them.

He is said to have gone to the state house that Sunday night and to have been denied admittance to the room in which the Senator sat while directing the proceedings of the Legislature. Weiss remained in the corridor, hoping to be able to speak to Long when he left the office.

Presently the Senator appeared, the narrative goes, and Weiss stepped over to him and asked him not to permit circulation of the story about his father-in-law, mentioning his own children. Long is reputed to have made a most insulting reply, upon which Weiss struck him in the face, cutting his lip. Thereupon, the story continues, the Senator's bodyguard turned loose with their guns, riddling Weiss.

One of the shots is said to have gone wild and pierced Long's body.

Weiss, it is declared never drew his pistol during the encounter. As his only offense was the striking of Long, the bodyguard was, it is insisted, guilty of murder. Weiss apparently carried his pistol when he went to the capitol, and it is said Long's friends removed it from his pocket, fired it several times and left it lying on the corridor floor in order to justify their own firing.

Whether or not this story of the fatal shooting is correct, it is a fact that there has been general failure to understand why Dr. Weiss should have sought the life of the Senator. He was a man of calmness in his daily life, had never mixed in the fierce political quarrels of the state, and must have known that any attempt to slay Long meant certain death. In clearing up this phase of the matter, at least, the story seems to have some logic, as it explains an act which people generally have never been able to understand. — Missouri Democrat.

YOUNG PEOPLE STILL FAR SHORT OF GOAL FOR C. E. MEET FUNDS

Christian Endeavor leaders collected $30 in a drive conducted Saturday for funds to finance a state convention here November 7, 8, 9, and 10. The $216 collected by now is almost $380 short of the goal.

Kemper Bruton, general chairman of the convention, announced Monday that W. F. Woenke is now constructing of artificial flowers a large Marine Anchor, which will hang suspended in the center of the Methodist church, where all convention sessions will be held. The symbol suggests faith and loyalty. Small ones will be awarded to each society in the state registering twelve or more delegates.

Mr. Bruton also said that merchants will be asked to make window displays appropriate for the convention, with the Endeavor's colors, red and white, predominating. Awards will be given for most distinctive exhibits. Additional features of the Christian Endeavor convention include three open evangelistic meetings in Railroad park; trips to Sikeston gins and to the cotton oil mill; orations on "For Me, I Choose Christ" by young people between 16 and 18 years old, the winner to gain a full year's scholarship to Missouri Valley College at Marshall and half-year scholarships thereafter if he remains on the school honor roll.

Uniformed ushers will conduct delegates to their seats to hear many noted speakers, including Miss Helen Topping, Kagawa's private secretary in Japan; Harry Harlan, a Kansas City Y. M. C. THREE HURT WHEN CAR LEAVES ROAD AT CURVE

Three Sikeston women were painfully injured at midnight Sunday when their car left Highway 61 and plunged into a ditch near Steele.

They are Mildred Waters, Muriel Hurt, and Pat Murphy. All of the young women suffered back injuries. Miss Hurt also sustained lacerations on her face, and Miss Murphy's body was paralyzed from the hips down. Dr. McKinney, a Caruthersville physician who treated the three, did not know if the affliction would be permanent.

The women were riding in Miss Waters' Plymouth coupe when they failed to see a curve in time to remain on the road. John Albritton and Herbert Bandy went to Dr. McKinney's office to take the women in their ambulance to the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau, where they were received at 5 o'clock Monday morning.

J. H. Chunn, an attorney associated here with M. G. Gresham, suffered a paralytic stroke Friday night. He was attended by Dr. G. W. Presnell until early the following morning, when he was taken to East Prairie, his former home. He was reported to be improving by late Saturday.

Fertilizer Makes Legumes Better Nitrogen Factories

Legumes are natural nitrogen factories—but their production may be increased with the use of phosphorus and potash.

Many farmers grow legumes as green manure crops because they collect nitrogen from the air and put it into the soil. Applications of phosphorus and potash to legumes stimulate their growth enabling them to produce more nitrogen than if they did not receive these fertilizers materials. These are not wasted as they are available for the next crop as corn or cotton when the legumes are plowed under and decay.

By this method the farmer gains the use of three fertilizer materials for other crops although he applied only two.

Phosphorus and potash applied to legumes when grown as a green manure crop help to produce heavier yields of corn and other crops than if the same fertilizer is applied directly to the crops, tests of the United States Department of Agriculture show.

Brighten Your Shadows

A piece of white cardboard brightened this shadowed face

HAVE you ever tried taking a picture of your best girl—or your wife—wearing her new broad-brimmed summer hat and find, when you see the finished print, that her pretty face turned out to be an unattractive dark shadow? Of course you have. Who hasn't?

Now there is really no excuse for this common error in amateur photography. You can't prevent the appearance of the shadow but you can lighten it considerably in the picture by using a reflector to cast or reflect the necessary light under the brim of the hat and on her face.

Please don't gasp and think about spending a lot of money for a reflector for it isn't necessary. A satisfactory, efficient reflector can be had for practically nothing. Any number of things will serve you; a piece of white paper about three feet square, a white cloth of the same dimension or even a pillow slip or white towel, if the chancellor of the linen closet will let you get away with it, will serve admirably.

What's the trick? There's no trick to it at all. This is all you have to do. Suppose we use the pictures of the comely young lady above as an example. Both snapshots were taken noon with the sun's rays striking the top of the hat. Notice the picture to the right; how the brim of the hat casts a dark shadow over the face. The picture to the left, however, shows the pleasing results by using a reflector to cast or reflect the sun's rays under the hat. The reflector in this instance was a piece of white cardboard about two feet square held about four feet from the subject and tilted so as to reflect the sun's rays on her face and under the hat.

If there is not a third party to hold a reflector it can be placed on a chair at the proper angle or tilted against a stick placed in the ground. Be sure, however, that the reflector does not appear in the view finder of your camera. This is only one of the many ways a reflector may be used to advantage in getting better pictures. By giving a little thought to your snapshotting you can readily detect where a reflected light on your subject may brighten over-shaded spots in outdoor or indoor picture making. Try it.

FEARS AMERICA IS NOT SAFE DURING WARTIME

A fear that America is not safe during a foreign war, despite the recent neutrality laws, and a suggestion that this country has not done its share in preserving peace are expressed by Clarence Poe, president of the Progressive-Farmer-Ruralist company in the October issue of the magazine.

"In this day of airplanes, steamships, radio, etc.," he writes, "the nations have become so close together that for one great nation to try to stay out of a war when most other nations are involved is like trying to keep neutral in a crowded room with a free-for-all fight going on all around you."

Under circumstances very like those which drew the United States into the world war, this country might easily become involved again. Mr. Poe thinks. "There are going to be disputes between nations," he states "and these disputes are going to be settled by war... so long as no potent machinery is available to settle them in peace. In the fury and hate and madness of war's 'free-for-all fight in a crowded room' we shall inevitably suffer injuries or insults sooner or later that will drag us into war. And this is true regardless of all our pious resolutions to stay out—and will be true as long as there is no effective Supreme Court of Nations to safeguard our rights."

Considering the great cost of war in money and lives, "it is appalling to consider how little America is willing to do to co-operate with other nations to prevent war."

"Suppose the peace treaty did need revision—as it did. Suppose the League of Nations did need improvement—as it did. If the United States had gone into the League, all the power of the United States could have been thrown into efforts for needed change and betterment. The power of the United States could have been used to compel that disarmament by France, England, and Italy which the treaty promised in return for German's own disarmament. The failure of the United States to co-operate with the League on some basis (even if with the reservations Senator Lodge demanded) is probably responsible for Japan's willingness to defy the League and enter upon a policy of bullying, dominating, and absorbing China—a policy which may yet plunge the nation into another war as horrible as that of 1914-18 even if Mussolini's own action does not lead to that result. If the United States had entered the League and the World Court we do not believe either Japan or Mussolini would have defied or ignored them.

Whether this is precisely true, whether instead, the United States would have become more immeshed in foreign affairs than it is now, is still an open question.

LEGION RENTS ROOMS FOR USE THIS WINTER

Members of the Henry Mel-drum Post 114 of the American Legion have rented two back rooms on the McCoy-Tanner building's second floor for use this winter.

While one of the rooms is reserved for meetings, the others will be converted into a reading and recreation room.

The Legion will first meet in the new quarters on November 11, after they have been redecorated. Members of the Auxiliary will also use the McCoy-Tanner building rooms.

KIRK NAMED PRESIDENT OF NEW KIWANIS CLUB

George W. Kirk was elected president of the Sikeston Kiwanis club and an organization dinner meeting held Friday evening in the basement of the Christian church.

Before he moved here, Mr. Kirk was a member of the Charleston Kiwanis club for nine years, and during one term he served as lieutenant-governor of the St. Louis division, which then included nine groups in St. Louis and three in Southeast Missouri—at Charleston, Poplar Bluff, and Bloomfield.

Other officers elected are G. J. Phillips, vice-president; G. H. Dover, secretary; and Earl Allen, treasurer. W. E. Hollingsworth, J. E. Robinson, Charles Boyce, J. S. Keil, Dr. B. F. Blanton, P. B. Bartness, and the Rev. E. H. Orear, were chosen members of the board of directors.

Twenty-seven attended the meeting Friday, including the guests, Bob LaFollette of Chicago, a traveling representative of Kiwanis International; Charles Oliver, George Munger, Bert Smith, and C. H. Olspaugh members of the Bloomfield Kiwanis club; and H. G. Simpson, president of the Charleston club, John Williams, secretary, and A. D. Simpson, also a member of the Charleston group.

Short talks were made by H. G. Simpson, Munger, Oliver and LaFollette, who outlined a comprehensive twelve-weeks' program for the organization here.

Members decided to convene for a dinner meeting each Thursday between 8:10 and 7:30. At this week's session, Mr. Kirk will announce the appointment of members to committees and men from the Poplar Bluff Kiwanis club will present a sponsor's program consisting of entertainment, speeches, and a report of an annual M-Kan-Ark district Kiwanis convention, which opened in Springfield, Mo., Sunday.

Kiwanis club objectives include service to underprivileged children; intelligent, aggressive, and serviceable citizenship; friendly understanding among all citizens, rural and urban; vocational guidance; and boys and girls work. Special objectives are encouragement of adequate educational facilities, especially those making for character development; simple, economical, and efficient government; directive education for the proper use of the new leisure; and support of churches in their spiritual aims.

Club policies are to foster and promote the international good will which exists between Canada and the United States; to extend Kiwanis by building new clubs and by constant emphasis upon increasing the membership of all clubs, with due regard to quality and age average; to increase activities by the participation of every Kiwanis club in the field of service suggested by all objectives and special objectives, by the continuation of five-point programs of activities formulated for club committees, and by sponsoring open forums for non-partisan discussion of public problems; and to inspire Kiwanians with the ideals and purposes of the organization by educating all members, new and old, in Kiwanis, by adequate leadership training, and by enriching club meetings with attractive programs and joyous fellowship.

Finally, objects of the organization, listed in article two of the constitution, are to give primacy to the human and spiritual values of life; to encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships; to promote the adoption and the application of higher social business and professional standards; to develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive, and serviceable citizenship; to provide thru Kiwanis clubs a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service, and to build better communities; and to cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which makes possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism, and good will.

LaFollette, who remained here after Friday's meeting to help organize the group, left Saturday night to attend the district convention. A list of the charter members will be announced next week.

MOREHOUSE MEN ENTER PLEAS ON ARSON CHARGES

Punishment for Dade Bryant and Marshall Bryant, brothers, of Morehouse, was fixed when they pleaded guilty in the New Madrid county circuit court to arson charges Thursday, four days after they had been arrested following the destruction of a Morehouse residence by fire late Sunday night, October 13.

Dade Bryant, who is 30 years old, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. Because he is only 16 years old, Marshall Bryant was given a two-year term in the Missouri training school for boys at Booneville. The young Bryant is accused of igniting the house with an oil-soaked shirt.

Walter Hostler, 20-year-old friend of the two who was allegedly offered $25 to burn the house, is still being held on a conspiracy charge.

The house was burned the night before it was to have been disposed of at a tax sale. Eight hundred dollars insurance was carried on it.

Unhurt When Car Leaves Road

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Richards, Sr., of New Madrid were not hurt Wednesday when the automobile in which they were driving was sideswiped by a truck on Highway 61 six miles south of Cape Girardeau. Richards was rounding a curve on his way to St. Louis when a south bound truck was driven onto the wrong side of the road. To avoid a collision, he ran his car into a ditch, damaging its left side and breaking window glasses. Mr. and Mrs. Richards went on to St. Louis after their automobile had been taken to Cape Girardeau.

5 Fined for Drunkenness

Five men were fined $3 and costs each in police court Monday morning when they pleaded guilty to being drunk during the week-end.

They are William Metcalf, Doff Thompson, Richard Vincent, Geo. Tuckett, and Robert Lee, who was also accused of fighting. The first three have either paid or will secure their fines. Tuckett and Lee are working on the streets.

Judge W. H. Carter had not passed Monday morning on drunkenness charges preferred against Charles Gregory and Ernest McCoy.

NYA GIVES ASSISTANCE TO 8,000 STATE STUDENTS

A gratifying response on the part of young people to the student-aid phase of the National Youth Administration program is reported by Champ Clark Buckner, Missouri state director of the NYA.

"While in a few instances quotas have not been filled," Mr. Buckner said, "schools which have more student applicants than they can place are typical of the program as a whole."

Students aid has been made available to 5266 high school students in Missouri, according to Mr. Buckner. While this number was divided into quotas last month in order to have some kind of working basis, the original numbers are subject to readjustments.

"In our endeavor to make students aid available to the greatest number possible," Mr. Buckner explained, "we intend to revise the figures soon in order to take up the slack in schools whose quotas are unfilled and to extend the aid in those which are oversubscribed. Re-allocations will be made with the view of reaching every student we possibly can."

"The student receiving college aid in Missouri," he continued, "totals 2,750, so that the student aid part of our work alone helps more than 8,000 Missouri boys and girls by providing them with work necessary for their attending school. I rather believe the fact that through the NYA 8,000 Missouri young folk who otherwise would be doing nothing are now attending school, needs no interpretation to any school official. I feel all will realize at a glance the great contribution the government is making to our state educational system and to youth itself."

All inquiries regarding the changes in quotas should be addressed to A. C. Moon, educational director of the Works Progress Administration, 208 East Capitol Avenue, Jefferson City, Missouri.—Missouri Schools.

RESETTLEMENT PROGRAM PLANNED FOR DISTRICT

Plans are now being made for the establishment of a resettlement group in Southeast Missouri. John F. Nicholson, state administrator for the federal resettlement administration, announced last week.

The exact location for the project has not yet been determined. Nicholson said, but farm families moved from unproductive tracts or sub-marginal lands, will be located before the beginning of the next season. A second group will be established in the southwest part of the state.

A survey of the resettlement administration's work in Missouri was made by Nicholson last week when he told of aid given to 4040 farmers. Of the total, only about 400 landholders have been moved from their homes to other property. The rest of the persons aided under the program have been rehabilitated.

Extending credit on long terms at a low interest rate, the government enables farmers to place themselves on self-sufficient basis. For larger loans, the administration takes what security applicants can offer; for smaller ones, only personal signatures. The government also provides livestock and necessary farm machinery besides making livestock feed loans.

On the first of this month, the administration had lent about $1,500,000, the loans averaging $350. The numbers made in Southeast Missouri counties are listed below.

Butler, 84; Cape Girardeau, 35; Dunklin, 24; Mississippi, 21; New Madrid, 11; Pemiscol, 6; Scott, 18; and Stoddard, 56.

HODGKIN'S DISEASE FATAL TO U. A. EMERSON, MORLEY

U. A. Emerson, a brother of Mrs. Fred Jones of Sikeston, died of Hodgkin's disease Friday at his home in Morley. Mr. Emerson had been ill periodically four years, but did not become seriously ill until several months ago. Recently he underwent treatment at the May clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Funeral services were held at the Morley Baptist church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the Rev. H. Patterson officiating. Burial was in the Morley cemetery. Mr. Emerson was born in Johnson county, Illinois, on May 21, 1890, but moved to Scott county when he was two years old. During the last eleven years he had been manager of the Morley branch of the Emerson-Smith Gin Company, which operates also in Hayti, Hunterville, and Braggadocio.

Besides Mrs. Jones, he is survived by four children of a marriage to Miss Dora LeVan, who died fourteen years ago, Mrs. Leona Morgan of Hayti, Arlyn Emerson of St. Louis, Herschel Emerson of the home, and Harley Emerson, now stationed on the west coast with the United States navy; his second wife, formerly Miss Esther Wright; their three children, Robert, Jack, and Jane Emerson; and two brothers, H. RESIDENCE OF MATTHEWS DIES OF STOMACH CANCER

Gale Hunott, a native of New Madrid county and a resident of Matthews for twenty-one years, died Thursday night of cancer of the stomach. He had been ill six months.

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Matthews Church of the Nazarene and burial was in the Matthews cemetery.

Hunott was 45 years old. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Ruby and Martha Dale Hunott, and three sons, Chester, Roy, and Lloyd Hunott, all of the home. Albritton service.

In response to a protest by the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis officials are investigating an alleged speed trap on Highway 61 in Carondelet township.

"Southeast Missouri business men are going more and more to Memphis," P. G. Haag, president of the Poplar Bluff chamber, said in a telegram to the St. Louis organization. "Unless the expense of driving to St. Louis is reduced, through elimination of the speed trap in St. Louis county, we will be forced to warn motorists as a public service to avoid that city."

"I am informed organizations in Iron, Charleston, Sedalia, Columbia, and many other Missouri cities have complained of conditions in St. Louis county," Sikeston residents have also been caught in the trap.

Haag's telegram was sent after the Poplar Bluff Daily American Republic protested the trap in a front page editorial, which was followed Friday and Saturday with articles relating individuals' experiences. These included arrests for "speeding in an old model truck, reckless driving with a brand-new automobile, speeding on the highway, and running school zone safety signs."

One Poplar Bluff automobile dealer estimated that he has paid at least $100 to Carondelet constables. Usually he only handed the arresting officer $8.20, which represented a "cash bond," and went on. The $8.20, to which 50 cents is sometimes added for notarizing the bond, represents costs, the income of justices and constables.

In St. Louis, the Chamber of Commerce has pledged itself to co-operate with the Automobile Club of Missouri in an effort to eliminate any speed trap in the county. According to Gus Vahlkamp, attorney for the Automobile club, the organization has long tried to prevent St. Louis county officers from making unjustifiable arrests for fees. "The abuses have continued since 1921, when the fee system went into effect," he said, "and they will continue until it is abolished. As everybody knows, Missouri does not have a highway speed limit, but reckless and imprudent drivers are liable to arrest. It is not difficult to see the deputy constable's point of view. More than likely, he isn't a police officer in any sense of the word; he is merely a man with a deputy's badge, who, instead of following the trade in which he is nominally engaged, goes onto the highways to augment his personal income."

"We have received complaints that the motorists were charged with going 60 or 65 miles an hour, whereas they were only going 45 or 50. The driver is charged with reckless driving, and he is found guilty on the spot and told that he will be excused if costs totaling $8.20 are paid."

"This is illegal, for under Missouri statutes, no fine or costs can be collected until after an information has been issued by the prosecuting attorney's office."

Vahlkamp said drivers should not pay the costs without first getting receipts. These, he said, should be taken to the prosecuting attorney's office, where lawyers will determine the legality of the procedure. It will be difficult to secure receipts, however, he added.

Joseph Doran, constable of Carondelet township, contends his deputies are merely trying to promote safety on Highway 61, particularly since in the last two months four persons have been killed on the stretch which extends through Carondelet. "My men have instructions to arrest motorists going 55 miles an hour or more through congested areas or drivers who pass other machines on curves or hills," he said. "I'm sorry about those people from Southeastern Missouri, they drive through the thinly-populated counties and then forget to cut their speed after they enter Carondelet township, where there are 40,000 persons."

It has been suggested that Sikeston residents either trade in Memphis or go to St. Louis over Illinois highways until the speed trap is eliminated.

R. Emmett O'Malley, state insurance superintendent, filed eleven suits Friday to recover taxes with interest totaling $4,716,326.53 against eleven fraternal beneficiary organizations, including the Women's Benefit Association, the Royal Neighbors of America, the Sovereign Camp of Woodmen of the World, and the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle.

The suits are the first of sixty-two Mr. O'Malley is preparing and are similar to ones filed in Arkansas and Oklahoma, where $300,000 has already been collected.

O'Malley alleges the companies are liable for the 2 per cent state tax on premiums because they are operating as "old line" insurance concerns. He contends, as well, that the companies have been competing for business with regular concerns and that they have eluded the state levy by operating under fraternal charters that carry exemption from the tax. This constitutes "unfair competition and unfair trade practice," O'Malley contends.

In his suit the insurance superintendent seeks to collect a 2 per cent tax on all premiums paid since the defendant companies were organized in Missouri, as well as 6 per cent interest on the back taxes.

The eleven suits represent more than 80 per cent of the total the state will seek, although fifty-one other actions will be instituted soon. The largest, for $1,857,445.63, was filed against the Modern Woodmen of America of Rock Island, Ill., which has operated in this state since 1897.

Other defendant companies, together with amounts asked, are: Travelers of America, Columbus, Ohio, $37,826.81; Supreme Council Royal Arcanum, Boston, $386,754.33; Sovereign Camp Woodmen of World, Omaha, $609,540.80; Royal Neighbors of America, Rock Island, Ill., $341,228.79; Ben Hur Life Association, Crawfordville, Ind., $96,396.97; Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, Omaha, $143,661.16; Women's Benefit Association, Port Huron, Mich., $120,268.17; Yeoman Mutual Life Insurance Company, Des Moines, $321,625.58; The Maccabees, Detroit, $300,823.35; Security Benefit Association, Topeka, Kan., $500,752.94.

Sikeston, the last including the Shainbergs, the Grabers, the Yofees, the Goldsteins, the Schwartzs, and the Beckers.

After a religious service, hostesses served a cold lunch. The next meeting will be held in the clubhouse at Cape Girardeau.

Work was started Saturday on a new six-room house on Gladys street for George Faris, a state highway department employee. The residence will have one story with a basement and will be of frame materials covered with stucco. J. A. Sutterfield is the contractor.

Investigator Requests Pension Applicants to Have Records Available

A request that all applicants for old age assistance have records of their birth and citizenship available was made Saturday by Geo. Fenimore of Bertrand, an investigator in Scott, Mississippi, and Stoddard counties for the state old age assistance board.

Mr. Fenimore began his work in Mississippi county, and during last week he investigated Scott county cases in and near Chaffee. Because he will spend some time in Stoddard county, he will not return to work at Sikeston for a month.

Most persons possess some kind of birth and citizenship records, Mr. Fenimore said. If they do not have birth certificates, then he may have preserved old hunting and marriage licenses or insurance policies. Citizenship records must include information concerning the number of years 'ne applicants have lived in the state and in the community in which they applied for pension.

Mr. Fenimore asks that persons have records conveniently near when he visits them. Applications that fail to establish birth and citizenship dates will not be approved.

Remodeling Finished at Sikes Hardware Company

Another completely new and modern store front was added to Sikeston's business district last week-end when workmen finished a remodeling project begun last summer on the Sikes Hardware Company quarters on Front street.

Carpenters started to tear out a partition separating the hardware room from the space formerly occupied by Sam Graham's barber shop on August 5, soon after shop equipment bought by Elmos Taylor, its new owner, had been moved to a Center street building.

With additional space of forty by eighty feet, the Sikeses had constructed new shelves and new exhibit stands for hardware stock, and in the front they had a wide display windows built.

Removing an old high-placed marquee, workmen reconstructed the front, building three show windows and an additional entrance to the store. Now, without a marquee, the store exterior is handsome with new concrete entrances, new doors, and windows bordered with silver name letters on a black background at the top and with black carrara glass at the base.

Inside, the store has been painted and new simple distinctive light fixtures installed. Counters have been rearranged to accommodate customers more easily and rubber matting has been placed in the aisles.

MADRID DISTRICT TO BE REFINANCED IF PROPERTY OWNERS AGREE TO PLAN

A meeting of New Madrid county landowners interested in the refinancing of drainage district thirty-eight will be held in Gideon at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, according to J. V. Conran, attorney for the district.

The session will be conducted to explain the reconstruction finance corporation's offer: to lend the district 65 per cent of its outstanding indebtedness. Because the bondholders have agreed to accept 75 per cent, the district must raise 10 per cent cash, pay all expenses, and have enough left to meet interest requirements for 1936, Mr. Conran said.

"This can be done by an immediate settlement of all delinquent taxes in the district, including 1935 assessments, at 75 cents on the dollar, with all interest and penalties knocked off," Mr. Conran said. "This will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to the landowners and the future interest will be 4 per cent in place of 6."

Make arrangements now to have dinner or supper or both at the Catholic Ladies' Chicken and Ham dinner and supper at the Parish Hall October 23.

Washington Current Comment

A state governor has gone on record as favoring a repeal of the income tax, never a popular measure for the reason that it comes in a lump sum and is readily recognized. Perhaps it is less dangerous than a multitude of penny taxes, collected under cover and capable of supporting unnoticed abuses. After all, the best measure of a man's ability to pay is what he earns. The time may come when it will be regarded unjust to fine a person for owning the land that yields him a sparse living or for having a few hundred dollars in savings laid up against a rainy day. The income tax belongs to a despised family but he may not be the black sheep.

The American Federation of Labor, in session at Atlantic City, announces in language not to be misunderstood, that it has no use for Communism, European dictators or participation in a so-called World War. Not everyone is on the rolls of the Federation, but if that organization is opposed to the things mentioned, there are few who, in a broader sense, do not "belong."

It is said that snipers are getting in their work in the world's latest disturbance. A sniper is a good shot who believes in individual rather than mass effort. The commanding officer of a squad of sharpshooters once was asked what he would do if attacked by a force three times the size of his to which he responded that each of his men would shoot three times. Snipers ever have been the most effective source of protection for the oppressed minority in seasons of warfare. Perhaps the stronger powers have overlooked the service that can be rendered by the crack shot. It cannot be denied that the United States would be avoided as a hot spot if it were known that even fifty percent of the male population had the marksmanship of William Tell.

A well known publicist states that there is and can be no such thing as government control of newspapers, which is true in part only. In a kingdom, the sovereign resides in the king. In a republic, it resides in the people. The newspapers give the people what they want. That admitted, there is a government control of the press, and that control will continue until the form of our government is changed. If newspapers do not come up to the standard, the directing power, namely the readers, have not exercised wisely the power that is vested in them.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent are family people now, a son having been born to them a few days ago. The matter might be passed over without remark if it were not for the circumstance that the infant stands seventh in line for the throne of England. Citizens of the United States generally regard the cut and dried system of passing a job along according to a rule of succession as a ridiculous arrangement, good enough for Europe but having no place here. It might be well to recall that about forty years ago Congress provided an order of succession to the presidency in the event that the Chief Executive for reasons specified, were unable to serve. If the name of the Kent child were on the American list, his chances would not be regarded as particularly good. Getting down to a concrete statement, he would have to wait until Mr. Garner, the Secretaries of State, Treasury and War, the Attorney General and the Postmaster were out of the way. It is likely that the Secretary of the Navy has not wasted any time in grooming himself for the Presidency. Little Johnny Kent may profit by his example and compose himself for the quiet life of an English gentleman.

Upon looking up Detroit in the encyclopedia, all that can be found relates to commerce, population, business interests, history and geographical location. Future editions of the reference work should contain useful information; for instance, proper space should be given to the fact that the City of the Straits carried off the World Series baseball pennant in 1935.

Councilmen Thursday night granted Lyman Gross permission to construct an addition to his cafe and service station buildings on Highway 61 south of the International shoe factory. ANNOUNCES MEETINGS

Facts on Corn-Hog Situation To Be Presented to Communities

Nine community meetings where New Madrid county farmers will be given the facts on the present corn-hog situation and outlook as a forerunner for the nation-wide corn-hog referendum on Saturday, October 26, have been scheduled starting, October 22, and ending October 24, it is announced by County Agent Leslie Broom.

The schedule of places, dates, and time is as follows:
Matthews, Oct. 22, 1:30.
Risco, Oct. 23, 1:30.
Gideon, Oct. 22, 1:30.
Portageville, Oct. 23, 1:30.
New Madrid, Oct. 24, 1:30.
Parma, Oct. 24, 1:30.
Kewanee, Oct. 24, 1:30.
East Prairie, Oct. 23, 1:30.
Canalou, Oct. 22, 1:30.

The situation to be discussed at the meetings is one in which livestock numbers are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring the greatest increase in hog production that the country has ever seen in a similar period with consequent disastrous hog prices. Ten such violent ups and downs, or cycles, during the past 45 years have undermined the swine industry, brought violent upswings and downswings in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power and wiped out markets for industrial products.

Not only the future of the hog industry but also the gains that have been made during the past two years are at stake in the forthcoming referendum. These two years have seen the end of ruinously low prices for corn and hogs with consequent benefits both to farmers and industrial activities. In recent months, for the first time in nearly 10 years, corn and hog prices have been at or near their fair exchange value. Despite the drought, cash farm income from hogs in 1934, including adjustment payments, was more than 37 per cent greater than in 1933 and nearly 60 per cent greater than in 1932.

ALL GROWERS MAY VOTE
Corn-Hog Board Names Polling Places for October 26

A statement telling who may vote in the corn-hog referendum Saturday, October 26 and listing polling places convenient for all, has been issued by the board of directors of the New Madrid county Corn-Hog Production Control Association as follows:

All operators and owners, or their official representatives, of farms which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote regardless of whether or not they signed a corn-hog contract in past years. Community committeemen will determine the eligibility of voters. Each eligible person is entitled to only one vote regardless of the number of farms he may own or operate, no matter where located.

Polling places conveniently located for all eligible voters throughout the county have been announced by the board as follows:

Matthews, Risco, Gideon, Portageville, New Madrid, Parma, Kewanee, East Prairie, Canalou, Lilbourn, all on October 26.

The polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. At the end of the voting ballots will be counted by the committeemen placed in charge by the county association and the results will be sent by messenger to the county board at the office of County Agent Broom so that the vote for the entire county may be wired to state headquarters at Columbia by Monday noon. The state results, in turn will be wired to Washington by Tuesday.

The corn and hog industry, on Saturday, October 26, will express its choice of continuing or discontinuing a production adjustment program designed to hold corn acreage down to a safe level and preventing an excess increase in hog numbers. The alternative is to release control both on corn acreage and hog production at the risk that during the next three years the increase in hog production from the 1935-36 level will be greater than for any period in the country's history with consequent disastrous hog prices.

Chili Pepper Powder Is High in Vitamin A

It is through liberal use of chili pepper powder as a seasoning that Mexicans get much of their vitamin-A requirement, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. Mexican diet, because of its apparent lack of vitamin A, was a puzzle to nutritionists until someone suggested chili powder. Most peppers are known to be good sources of vitamin A.

For vitamin tests, the Bureau used the particular variety of pepper (chili ancho Colorado) most extensively dried and ground for chili powder. These peppers formerly were imported into this country from Mexico, but are now successfully grown in Southern California. They do not do well, however, in New Mexico and Texas.

Preliminary tests indicate the vitamin A content of air-dry chili pepper is very high—two or three times that of a good grade of butter.

MOSES UPSHARD PAYNE, PHILANTHROPIST

"Few careers, however prominent, in the history of the State of Missouri have been more eminently successful or useful than that of Moses Upshard Payne," whose foresight in predicting financial trends enabled him to amass a fortune and to give generously to religion and education. One hundred and twenty-eight years ago this week, Moses P. Payne was born in Woodford county, Kentucky, on October 25, 1807. At the age of seventeen he was converted to the Methodist faith and when twenty-one he received a license to preach. Throughout his life he was one of the most enthusiastic of lay preachers.

Payne devoted his early years to learning the trade of cotton-spinning and followed this occupation in this native county. Later he conceived the idea, far in advance of others of his time, that the manufacturing advantages of this industry would be found at the source of the greatest supply. He determined to seek his fortune in the Southern states where "cotton was king."

During the '40's Payne made his home in New Orleans, where his industry, economy and prudence soon made him a prosperous and influential factor in the cotton interests of the South.

While in New Orleans, Payne early foresaw war between the North and the South and began gradually disposing of his property in this section. His money

Fayette received several gifts from him.

The last years of Mr. Payne's life were spent on his estate in Iowa, where he died on August 9, 1895. Before his death he gave to the Payne Institute of Augusta, Georgia, a school for the education of colored preachers and teachers, an endowment fund of $25,000, and a like fund to the Methodist Church Extension Board. Of him it was said that "as a business man he was capable of managing large interests. He conducted his business on Bible principles; he defrauded no man, he oppressed none, and as a preacher he was strong and faithful."

GAS TAX COLLECTIONS SHOW BIG INCREASE

There is no better business barometer than that of gasoline tax collections, and judging by this yardstick, recovery is evident in Missouri.

Gasoline tax collections during August of this year, according to a recent statement by Roy H. Cherry, State Oil Inspector, amounted to $1,004,472—the first time since the motor vehicle fuel tax law became effective in 1925 that a single month's revenue has reached the million dollar mark. Inspector Cherry discloses in Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is captured by Kurdish irregulars, but rescued when the supposed leader of the Kurds turns out to be a British secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." When they are steering the bulkier, an Armenian tribe against which the Kurds are advancing, to a place of safety across the mountains, Andrews battles with Smith when he sees him kill Cullen, an enemy spy, in cold blood. Andrews' leg is broken and he is sent to a clearing hospital. Smith disappears.

CHAPTER IV

After weeks of suffering in the mountains and at the Medical Clearing Station Andrews eventually reached the British hospital in Cairo. He was there for months, for his broken leg necessitated an operation. When he was well enough to be up and about again his injury still caused him to limp badly.

During his stay at the hospital Andrews had fallen in love with his nurse, pretty blonde Rosemary Hayden. On the day he was to be dismissed he cornered the girl who had been trying to evade him, and followed her along the hospital corridor as she delivered medical supplies to the various wards.

"Didn't you get my message?" he demanded.

"Yes. Noon...same place, garden...urgent," she teased.

"Why didn't you come?"

"Was it really so urgent?" She picked up a tray and entered a room as she spoke. Andrews poked around the medical supplies until he caught the eye of a stern-faced nurse.

Then he limped away to come back as the girl returned.

"Yet, it was urgent," he persisted. "I'm well. They're kicking me out of here today. I suppose I should be glad," he added after a pause. "It's your fault that I'm not."

"You really ought to go now," said the girl.

"Not unless you promise to dine with me tonight."

"But I can't. Nurses are not allowed..."

"At the Terrace Hotel," he continued implacably. "Please. Couldn't you try?"

"Possibly," she smiled, as she picked up another tray.

That evening found them seated face to face across a table in the dining room of the Hotel Terrace. They had just finished dinner and Rosemary was looking about her, enjoying the forbidden surroundings and the pleasant music.

"Nurses aren't allowed to do this sort of thing, you know, even with heroes," she smiled. "They're not allowed to wear evening clothes or dine in public with officers. Or dance..."

Taking the hint, he rose and they swept out on the dance floor. But a few moments later, while the orchestra was in the midst of playing "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," Andrews stopped.

"Let's go outside for a while," he suggested. "Leg's hurting."

But on the balcony, in the brilliant moonlight, he confessed that his leg was all right after all.

"I was lying," he admitted. "I wanted to be alone with you."

back against his arms. But only for a moment...then she ceased to resist. Very slowly, her arms came up until one hand rested on his shoulder while the other pressed the back of his head.

"It's my fault! My own fault!" She cried at last. Tears were in her voice as well as her eyes. "Will you please take me back now?" She put one white hand to her forehead as he released her.

"No! I want to know what on earth's upset you."

"I'll tell you, but I've got to humiliate myself to do it. I was miserable because I've let myself fall in love with you." She turned and started quickly away, but he caught her arm.

"What do you want from me?" she cried desperately.

"You," he answered. "Miss Hayden...may I present Mr. Andrews? He wants to marry me."

"Didn't you get my message?" he demanded

"Oh...I see." The girl seemed suddenly frightened. "I think we'd better go back."

"No."

"Please, Michael."

"Why are you so...so tragic suddenly?" he asked, barring her way.

"Michael, I hope you..."

"I hope you haven't misunderstood," he finished for her.

"Michael, I'm afraid you've..."

"I'm afraid you've taken too much for granted," he teased.

Then, catching her almost roughly by the shoulder, he added. "No, that's not true, and you know it."

His arms tightened their hold. He bent his head and kissed her, holding her powerless against him.

A small, stifled sound came from her and she resisted him, straining

He was trying to lighten the situation.

"My dear," she murmured as if to herself as she stared at him, intensely moved. She put out a hand as if to touch him, then let it drop to her side. "My dear. You can't have me...I'm...I'm not my own. If I were..." She broke off abruptly.

"What do you mean?" he demanded harshly.

"I'm...I'm rather a fraud," she stammered. "You see, I'm married."

"Oh...I see!" His face became wooden and expressionless and he spoke with an elaborately casual tone. "Well, that, so to speak, is that! Did you say you had to be getting back?"

NYA YOUTH MAY BE GIVEN WORK ON CITY PROJECTS

At a meeting Thursday night, councilmen considered a suggestion that the city use young persons eligible for aid under the National Youth Administration to undertake municipal improvement projects under the direction of paid city employees. The city's cost for the work would be little or nothing.

Information concerning the proposed NYA program affecting cities was sent to Dr. G. W. Pressnell by George A. Spencer, a consultant field representative of the American Municipal Association, working with the Missouri Association of Mayors and Other Municipal officers under the state NYA.

Spencer included in his letter suggested subjects for the city's betterment, to be undertaken with NYA help, and after a discussion, councilmen voted to apply provided the city would not be for approval of three projects, required to assist financially.

They are for revising city ordinances; making a city map showing the distribution of electric service, the location of users and non-users, light poles, street lights, and transformers; and making a city map showing the sewer system location, the size and depth of pipes, connections, and joints for future connections.

Under apprenticeship plan, the National Youth Administration intends to give youth of relief families part-time employment in city and county administrative offices throughout the state. A large fund has been set aside to help young people between 18 and 25 years old. NYA officials have advised city officials, however, that persons aided must be given instruction in the functions of each office and not be permitted merely to do special and relatively uninformative clerical work.

At their meeting Thursday, councilmen also discussed the Sikeston breakdown on proposed statewide WPA projects but decided to postpone making a decision concerning it until a meeting later with C. L. Blanton, Jr., ninth area WPA director.

Under the project, $10,000 may be set aside for constructing a woman's jail and painting the interior and exterior of the city hall; $18,433 for extending the city lighting system and $73,000 for improvement of the municipal airport.

According to an earlier report from John J. Miller of Illmo, Sikeston had been allocated only $20,000 for air field work. Hubert Boyer, a councilman and a member of the board of aeronautics, said, however, that the city may have $73,000 if it contributes about $7500 as its share for the project. Work at the field would include construction of 1000-foot-wide blacktop runways diagonally across the field from the southeast to the northwest corners and from the southwest to the northeast, as well as an additional runway north and south along the drainage ditch on the east side. Further, workmen would build a 600-foot concrete apron before the hangars and a blacktop road behind the airport.

A new steel hangar, eighty by sixty feet, would be built to face west, and another building beside it, fifty by thirty feet, to house offices, a cafe and restrooms. Hangar space could be rented to airplane owners. The field would also be illumined with a large beacon and with border lights. A water main might possibly be extended to it.

Before work could be undertaken, however, the field would have to be in the name of the city, which has an option to purchase the land for $50 an acre, or $8000.

As in the case of the airport improvement project, for which the city would be required to pay an amount equaling 10 per cent of the federal contribution, Sikeston's share of the jail construction and whiteway extension projects would probably also be 10 per cent. Councilmen will learn for certain before they endorse the undertakings since the city is now scarcely able to donate funds for additional WPA work.

BLUE RHYTHM BOYS TO PLAY AT LIONS DANCE

Leon Jones and his Blue Rhythm boys will play at the Lions club Halloween dance for the benefit of underprivileged children on Thursday night, October 31. M. M. Beck announced Saturday. The dance will be held at the armory from 9:30 until 1 o'clock.

Tickets of $1 for couples or

stags, tax included, will be sold by all Lions club members, and since all profits will be spent on Christmas gifts for Sikeston's needy children, persons solicited will probably subscribe whether or not they plan to attend the dance.

Funds for the Lions Christmas activities are raised each fall with Halloween and Thanksgiving dances, the latter scheduled for November 28 this year.

For ten years, Lions have gone out in trucks Christmas mornings to distribute candies, oranges, and toys to underprivileged children and have donated canned goods for church food baskets, as well.

SEMO TELEPHONE CO. BUILDING DEXTER OFFICE

Work was started last week on a new office building for the Dexter branch of the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company. The structure, located on South Locust, will be 24-by-43 feet and will be constructed of buff brick. Its one story is to be of Spanish design. The company bought a lot two years ago, but construction has been delayed because of unfavorable business conditions.

MISS CAROLINE HESS TO SPEAK AT M. E. MEETING

Miss Caroline Hess will appear on the program of a district Methodist women's missionary society meeting at the Centenary church in Cape Girardeau Thursday. Miss Hess will speak at the morning session on "Missionary Education of Children."

The program will be opened with devotions led by Mrs. R. H. Daugherty, wife of the pastor of the Centenary congregation. After roll call of societies has been answered with two-minute reports, Mrs. G. R. Allison of Poplar Bluff, the conference treasurer, will discuss district finances.

Miss Hess' talk will follow greetings from the Farmington district, given by Mrs. W. F. Talley of Fredericktown, and will precede a vocal solo by Mrs. M. E. Leming, Jr., an address by Miss Mary Blackford, a missionary to China, and a prayer by the Rev. J. C. Montgomery, pastor of the New McKendree church in Jackson.

Mrs. O. H. Duggins of Fredericktown will open the afternoon session at 1:15 with a hymn and a devotional. The program will include a talk on "The Green Light" by Mrs. E. A. Kitchell of St. Louis, conference secretary;

music; brief speeches by Miss Roena Shaner of Jackson on temperance, Mary Lee Reed of Cape Girardeau on peace, and the Rev. Dawson C. Bryan, presiding elder of the district, on rural development; committee reports; and a prayer by the Rev. Mr. Daugherty.

District zone chairmen are Mrs. H. S. Holley of Bertrand for Mississippi county; Mrs. O. H. Bowers of Portageville, New Madrid county; Mrs. George Arnold of Fomfelt, Scott county; and Mrs. D. I. L. Seabaugh of Jackson, Cape Girardeau county.

Provost Murray, a lay preacher in the Scottish Free Presbyterian church at Glasgow, Scotland, has run afoul of a church law against dancing which dates back to 1649, only 28 years after the voyage of the Mayflower. He was suspended from ministerial privileges for six months, because he permitted dancing at a children's party in his home.

John Dover's bicycle was taken from the rack at the High School Thursday afternoon and he is very anxious to recover same. It is a Shapley special with balloon tires, the back one having been vulcanized. If this was taken as a joke, it is not funny to John.

Have you registered your spare bed for the Christian Endeavor meeting, or have you contributed your mite toward the fund promised by our local Christian Endeavor young people for the entertainment of the state-wide meeting to be held here early in November? If you have not, give it your attention at once. It is seldom ever that a city the size of Sikeston is honored with a meeting of this magnitude and each and every one of us should do our part toward entertaining guests within our city.

Dispatches from Kansas City state that Tom Pendergast, head of the Democratic Kansas City organization, has decided to throw his support to Major Lloyd Stark of Louisiana for governor. This, it is believed, was a graceful yielding to the logic of a sentiment which made it impossible that another candidate could win over Stark in the next primary. In every part of the state there was a large and militant demand for the Louisiana man. Everything indicated that he was the popular choice. Northeast Missouri was a unit in his favor, not simply because he was a Northeast Missouri man but because he was known to be just the type of candidate the times demand, a man who will measure up to the very best standards that are associated with the office of governor of Missouri. —Paris Appeal.

Lunch stands along the highways have some funny signs out to attract attention. Somewhere between Sikeston and Kansas City was a sign that read "Glorified Limburger Cheese." Just imagine.

Charles L. Blanton, III, is now about two years of age, is pretty smart for one so young and in the course of human events will probably succeed his father as publisher of The Standard. While we are past 72 years of age, are enjoying good health and hope to live long enough to talk to this boy so that he might understand us in order that he may know there are many things in life that are worth more than money. If he follows in the footsteps of his father and his grandfather he will lay up few riches in the way of dollars, but he can lay up things in the minds of men that money will not buy.

scot counties had been closed Sunday night could not be confirmed. When he was asked about the report, Sheriff Sam Harris of New Madrid said it was "news" to him. It would be to us, too.

Visits with Major Stark, Senator Truman and M. S. Murray in the banquet rooms at Kansas City were enjoyed. Major Stark stated he was taking time out now to attend to business, but early in the coming campaign would make an active canvas of every section of the State. Senator Truman stated he would be in this section soon on an inspection tour and would call at The Standard office to see if any new works of art had been added to our gallery. He was given the assurance of a welcome and he could see for himself that in some objects the Nelson Gallery had nothing on The Standard gallery. Matt Murray stopped at the Blanton table to greet the Missus, our sons and their wives. We are might proud of the friendship of this man Murray. Both of us are still for Pat.

Moore Haw, an attorney, has taken over the Charleston Democrat and says he proposes to run a Democratic paper. This outfit is an outcast outfit born under adverse circumstances and should be classed as a "Mis", as the original paper with good will and piles of junk was sold to Simon Loebe for $12,500 and in the contract the Smith's, father and son, agreed not to again operate a print shop in Charleston, but the old man got the printer's itch and with a shirt-tail full of material started the above sheet in another name but was the same Smith who had treated the contract as a scrap of paper. The Moore Haw shift is just another subterfuge to fool the people of that county as we have an idea that Smith, Sr., will continue to be the bull in the china shop. Just another case of shyster.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Louisa Early Mays, whom the death angels called 4 years ago, October 18, 1931. In the Evergreen cemetery. Only a few miles away. Lies our own dear mother. Sleeping beneath the flowers. You never complained of your trouble. Always thinking of our welfare. Trying to shield and protect us. From every worry and care. A happy home we once enjoyed. How sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness. The world can never fill. And the face we love is now laid low.

Your loving voice is stilled. The hand so often clasped in ours. Lies low in death's cold chill. O we have not forgot you, mother. Never shall sweet memories fade. Of the one we loved so dearly. And tried so hard to save. Loving thoughts will always wander. To the spot where you are laid. We think of you in silence. No eye may see us weep. But many tears are shed. While others are asleep.

Now the dear old home has lost its charm for us, one dear form is absent, mother, kind and true. She is sleeping now with other loved ones too. What a happy meeting over in that land. When we meet our mother. And our kindred band. There will be no more parting. No more bitter cries. When we meet our own. Dear mother in the skies. Sadly missed — Miss Ada Mays.

Presnell Paroles Gunter
Dr. G. W. Presnell Monday morning paroled Marshall Gunter who was jailed a week before when he admitted fighting with Claude Lee while he was drunk. Gunter was fined $5 and costs by Judge W. H. Carter but refused either to pay the fine or to work it out. He was to have served twelve days in jail.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Stearns and children, Betty Ann, Ruth and Doris, of Lilbourn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Campbell and family.

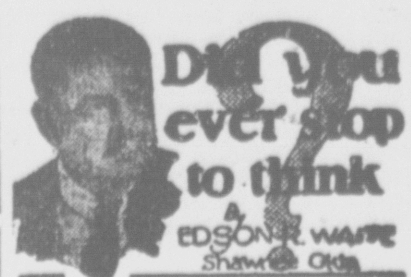

Howell Appointed Nite Policeman

Dr. G. W. Presnell Thursday night announced the appointment of E. V. Howell as night policeman to succeed W. A. Singleton, who has been granted a leave of absence. Howell will serve until Singleton returns here after working a short time for the Frisco railroad.

Miss Virginia Mount attended the wedding of Miss Mildred Golin and Evans Copeland in New Madrid Saturday. The marriage was solemnized in the Catholic church in that city. The young couple will live in Lebanon, Mo., where Mr. Copeland is employed. Mr. and Mrs. John Moll, who have been visiting in the home of their son, Burch Moll for two weeks, returned to their home in Jackson, Sunday. They were accompanied here by Mr. and Mrs. Burch Moll. Mrs. Gilbert Candy of St. Louis accompanied Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Slack and their son, Churchill Slack, here Sunday night for a short visit. The Slacks had been in St. Louis since Friday. Mrs. Candy will return home Wednesday.

Arrangements have again been made, as in past years, for the handling of migratory waterfowl shooting on the Mississippi River, whereby licenses from any one of the states of Missouri, Illinois and Iowa will be recognized thruout the entire extent of the river, provided the licenses do not in any case go upon lands taxed by or attached to either of the states from which they have no licenses. Last year this agreement had to be altered to some extent due to the variance in open seasons in the three states. This year, however, the season is identical in each of the states—October 21 to November 19. Hunters, however, must also be in possession of a federal duck stamp and must shoot from the banks of the state in which they hold a license, keeping in mind the 100 foot veg-station regulation. Under the plan hunters may move from bars and islands on any part of the river.

Among the various publications coming to my attention today was a copy of the U. S. Army Recruiting News, published by the Recruiting Publicity Bureau, Governors Island, N. Y.

The magazine, according to its masthead, is published "in the interest of recruitment for the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, the ROTC and the CMTC. Between its covers—16 pages in all—there is found news and semi-technical articles covering completely this wide field. In addition to the items dealing with up-to-the-minute affairs of the military service, there are also historical articles of interest to the general public. All in all, the reader may gain from this magazine an accurate and interesting picture of the Army, past and present.

All the work on this magazine including writing, art, make-up and printing, is done by regular army personnel, officers and enlisted men.

SOFT CORN AS FEED

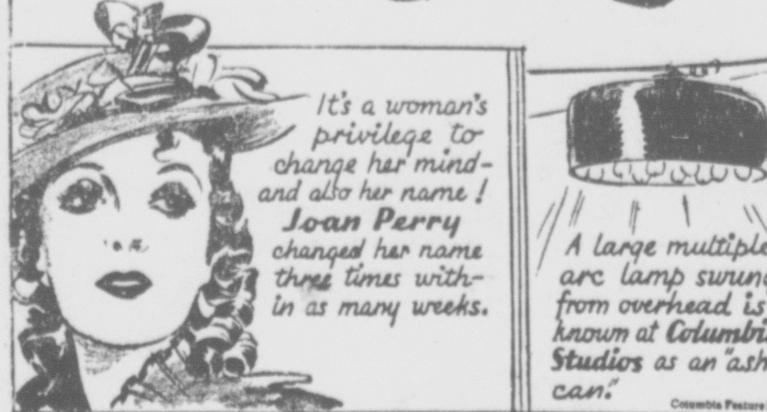

Selection Grains Presents Unusual Problems This Winter

The problems of selection and use of feeding grains this winter differ somewhat from those of a normal season says L. A. Weaver of the Missouri College of Agriculture. This is because of the reduction in corn acreage and the fact that much of the corn crop will not keep when cribbed. Since corn which contains around 25 per cent water may be satisfactorily cribbed, corn containing 35 per cent water may be considered as fairly soft, that containing 45 per cent water as soft, while corn which is 50 per cent or more water would be considered very soft. Early feeding of soft corn, while its quality is still good, is which occurs concerning this winter's feed problem is the utilization of soft or immature corn. In general, corn is considered soft if, because of high water content, it will not keep when cribbed. Since corn which contains around 25 per cent water may be satisfac-

desirable if maximum returns are to be secured. With proper management soft corn may be self-fed to fattening cattle and hogs, or if not self-fed then it should be offered the animals at more frequent intervals than is ordinarily done if maximum gains are desired. Soft corn containing some mold may also be utilized for feeding cattle and hogs, but should not be fed to horses or young sheep.

Judging from inquiries reaching the College from farmers, a relatively large amount of barley is being used as a corn substitute for feeding all kinds of livestock at the present time. Many of these letters indicate that some difficulty is being experienced in getting hogs to consume ground barley in amounts sufficient to produce satisfactory gains. Where such a condition exists the grain from which the meal was made was probably blighted or scabby.

At other experiment stations it has been found that while blighted barley gives the same results as the same grade of normal barley, when fed to all kinds of cattle, sheep, and poultry; animals with simple stomachs, such as the horse and pig, react unfavorably to blighted or scabby barley.

The Secretary of War Speaks in the presence of the Emperor at a dinner in Japan, and the report of the affair contains no intimation that the Secretary was in any wise disturbed. The population of the world includes a noble company of martyrs who have fidgeted through a meal of virtuals oppressed by the thought that they had a speech to make afterwards. It must be great to be Secretary of War, but most of us would be wherein the prospect of having to satisfied with that equanimity put on an after-dinner talk holds no terror.

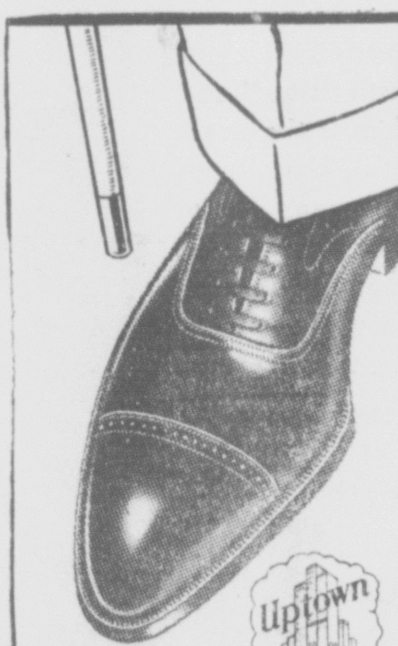

Mark Twain once said that foreigners did not know how to spell. One of the bad things about a foreign war is that it is sure to sprinkle the newspaper page with weird looking words.

COURT DECIDES MADRID COUNTY SCHOOL CASE

Jefferson City, Oct. 18—Town school districts, the State Supreme Court held today, cannot be divided and then organized into consolidated school districts.

The ruling was made in denying a writ of mandamus in which the Consolidated School District at Gideon, New Madrid county, sought to compel State Auditor Forrest Smith to register some bonds.

In 1929, the residents of that community voted to separate and later consolidate the districts, and for the last six years the existence of the consolidated school district had not been questioned.

Judge Ernest S. Gantt, who wrote the opinion, said a state statute passed in 1925 prohibited the inclusion of a town district with 500 children of school age within the territory of a consolidated school district.

WILL LOW PRICES RETURN? Possibility Must Be Considered in Corn-Hog Referendum

Welcome as it is after the feed shortage of the drought, cheap corn in plentiful supplies already is looming as a major threat to the stability of the hog industry, according to reports which county Agent Furry has received from state headquarters of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

By 1937 under a system of uncontrolled production the supply of corn threatens to be 50 per cent more for each hog than the average for five years preceding 1936. This would set the stage for one of the greatest increases in pork production that the country has even seen, according to the report.

The decision as to what shall farmers themselves Saturday, October 26, in the corn-hog referendum when they vote "Yes" or "No" on the question: Do you favor a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires November 30, 1935?

This year's harvest, according to a September 1 government crop report, will be about 2,184,000,000 bushels of corn as compared with only 1,377,000,000 bushels last year and an average production of more than 2 1-2 billion bushels during the five years from 1928 to 1932. Unfortunately extreme feed shortages as a result of the 1934 drought forced farmers to strip their herds and flocks to the smallest number of animals in 34 years. Consequently the corn supply per hog during the coming feeding season will be 1 1-2 times as large as the average for the 1928-32 period and larger than in any other year since the war.

With a fairly large corn crop in prospect and a comparatively small number of animals to utilize it, the trend of corn prices will be downward as now corn becomes available this winter. The farm price of the new crop may be expected to average well below parity.

If acreage is not held in check in 1936, it is likely that farmers will harvest more than 105 1-2 million acres of corn. The acreage this year, for instance, is nearly 94 million, in spite of the fact that contract signers retired about 11 1-2 million acres from corn production. In 1932 and 1933 the annual harvest exceeded 105 1-2 million acres. With average yields next year an uncontrolled acreage of corn would mean another harvest of more than 2 1-2 billion bushels.

Since drought-stricken herds and flocks cannot be rebuilt enough by 1936 to bring the grain supply per animal down to normal, the demand for corn for feeding will be far below average. With no adjustment program, even lower corn prices may be expected during the 1936-37 winter feeding season than is anticipated this winter.

Invariably in the past cheap corn has led to such a rapid upswing in hog production that ruinously low prices and distressed liquidation always have followed. Without a program low hog prices may be expected beginning in 1937.

Do You Know How to Make Your Car Last Longer?

"Good old Quaker State!" writes a famous journalist. "Our four-year-old demi-sedan is still going strong . . . speedometer registering 66,875 miles . . . and it has had nothing but Quaker State in its crankcase."

"At 33,000 miles, carbon was removed, and spark-plugs changed, for the first time."

"At 42,000 miles, the car was overhauled, a micro-meter officially put on the crankshaft. There had been no measurable wear. At 66,000 miles, carbon was removed again, and a third set of sparkplugs installed. Every time the gas-man asks: 'How's the oil?' I look at the speedometer, and tell him exactly how many more miles I have to go, without adding or refilling. 'How's that?' the gas man asks. 'I use nothing but Quaker State', my answer is."

Learn how to lengthen car life. Use Quaker State. What Counts is:

CHEVROLET COMPANY COMPLETES $25,000,000 EXPANSION PROGRAM

M. E. Coyle, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, revealed today that the company has completed during the current year a $25,000,000 program of plant expansion, increasing the production capacity of the ten Chevrolet assembly plants in the United States by 25 per cent, and raising the capacity of the company's own manufacturing plants, devoted to making of axles, engines, transmissions and other units, to enable them to keep pace with the enlarged assembly plants.

The expenditure of $25,000,000 was made for the erection and equipment of new buildings at assembly and manufacturing plants, and for the re-equipment and complete modernization of existing buildings. With few exceptions, most of the operations were undertaken and carried out without announcement to the public, the list of completed improvements given out today being the first publication of details of the completion of the company's 1935 program.

Announcement of the virtual expansion plans was made by Mr. Coyle to a group of newspaper automobile editors today as incidental to his statement that all ten Chevrolet assembly plants have been changed over within the last several weeks to produce new models of the Master Deluxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 to be introduced in November, and that the manufacturing plants and assembly plants are already producing the new cars.

Production is increasing daily, Mr. Coyle said, and the company will have built an ample supply of the new models to stock its 10,000 dealers with the 1936 cars before their introduction early next month, and to insure immediate delivery to retail purchasers on and after announcement day. Increased schedules have been set for November and December, in order to replenish dealer's stocks as rapidly as is necessary to provide for quick deliveries to purchasers.

While the great part of Chevrolet's expenditure of $25,000,000 was to attain increased capacity in preparation for an expected increase in demand during the coming year, Mr. Coyle declared that during the current year the company had carried out a comprehensive program of construction at assembly plants for the purpose of equalizing employment. This has been accomplished by providing greatly enlarged storage space at the plants, to receive and hold manufactured units until they are needed in assembly.

With the new storage facilities, plants will be enabled to spread their production more evenly over the year, building up the stock parts during months that normally are regarded as slack production periods, and drawing on these reserve stocks during peak production periods. Thus, during the coming winter, it is expected that regular employment will run higher than heretofore, since the manufacturing plants will be creating parts and units that may be drawn upon during the annual spring peak season. The storage capacity now available will serve not only to ease the seasonal employment problem, but also to prevent car shortages or delayed deliveries.

Every one of Chevrolet's ten assembly plants, situated at ten cities that serve as distribution centers to supply 10,000 car dealers, shared in the company's improvement program. Two major projects common to all ten plants were the installation of costly equipment for a newly developed cromodizing system of treating sheet metal to prevent rust, and for an elaborate system of recirculating lacquer and enamel, which is continuously pumped from mixing tanks through a circuit of conduits serving all the spray booths and dipping tanks with a constant supply of material.

Detroit and Michigan shared largely in the Chevrolet expenditure of millions of dollars for increased capacity of manufacturing plants. Among the principal developments were the following:

Detroit Gear and Axle plant—Building addition 160 by 200, and equipment, for the production of sheet metal stampings.

Detroit Forge plant—Extension of boiler and turbine rooms of the power house, 10,000 sq. ft., and equipment with a new turbine generator, high pressure steam generating units, condensers, etc., building extension, 60 by 125, to house axle shaft rolls; new building, 30 by 50 feet, for roll die room; new building, 25 by 40, for die room heat treating.

Bay City (Mich.) Small Parts plant—Two additions, total 57,000 sq. ft., to increase production capacity, and to take over the manufacture of parts formerly produced at Flint.

Saginaw (Mich.) Grey Iron foundry—Two additions, 29 by 400 and 42 by 180, to enlarge core room; addition, 80 sq. ft., to maintenance and pattern shop building.

Saginaw Service Parts Manufacturing plant—Entire plant, 50,000 sq. ft., formerly used by the Saginaw Motor plant, reconditioned and equipped with machinery for the manufacture of service parts, to relieve the Flint Motor plant and the Detroit Gear and Axle plant.

Saginaw Parts Manufacturing plant—Former General Motors Crankshaft plant, 160 by 690, taken over and equipped for manufacture of production parts; new building, 700 by 84, erected to house forge and bumper plant.

Munice (Ind.) Transmission plant—Plant of Munice Products, 250,000 sq. ft., taken over and equipped with machinery for the manufacture of transmissions.

Flint (Mich.) plant—New hospital building, 48 by 80 feet.

Besides the construction and equipment of the buildings listed, Chevrolet carried out a systematic program of modernization in plants in these and other cities, replacing old machinery with new, and installing up-to-date conveyor systems, new material handling methods and other improvements to give better results and to increase production capacity.

Among the assembly plants, the greatest development of the year was the completion of the new plant at Baltimore, Md., opened with public ceremonies last April. In addition to the general improvements carried out at all assembly plants, to better working conditions and increase production, Chevrolet enlarged assembly plants in six of their ten cities. New buildings are as follows:

Flint, Mich.—New Fisher body storage building, 95,000 sq. ft.

St. Louis, Mo.—Addition to parts building, 40,000 sq. ft., two-story building addition, 79, by 80, for office and body storage; new loading dock, 40 by 100.

Atlanta, Ga.—Addition to parts building, 60,000 sq. ft.

Kansas City, Mo.—New parts building, 60,000 sq. ft., addition to Chevrolet wing, 33,000 sq. ft.; addition to Fisher Body wing, 86,000 sq. ft., addition for storage, 40,000 sq. ft.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Storage balcony, 28,000 sq. ft.; Fisher Body storage building, 120,900 sq. ft.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Extension of second floor for storage, 6,000 sq. ft.

All the foregoing operations are virtually complete, and most of them are already in operation; those not yet in use will be ready for production before the end of the year.

At Indianapolis, one of the largest projects of the program has just got under way with the beginning of work on an immense new plant for the manufacture of commercial bodies. The new buildings, 600 by 400, including a power house, body building will continue to the remaining half of the present plant until the first stage of the new operation has been completed. The remainder of the old plant will then be razed, and a new building 720 by 320, will be erected to complete the new plant. The present office building will be retained.

Due to the seemingly prevailing idea that dogs could not be used this season in hunting of quail, Joe E. Green, Chief of Wardens, said this week that there has been no change in quail hunting regulations and that birds may be hunted with dogs as in past seasons. The season on quail shooting in Missouri is from November 10 to December 31. The bag limit is ten per day and fifteen in possession. Generally the outlook for a successful quail shooting is bright.

NOT A KICK IN A MILLION FEET

Hollywood Star-Lites

By Chuck Cardoch

Hollywood, California, October 21.—When Irving G. Thalberg announced he would produce "Romeo and Juliet" it failed to surprise Fritz Leiber, perhaps the foremost contemporary exponent of Shakespeare on the stage.

"Inevitably," Leiber said yesterday, "Shakespeare must follow Dickens to the screen. The way has been paved for the great things of dramatic literature. It is only a question of time before other Shakespearean works will be filmed."

Leiber disbanded his own theatrical road show company in Los Angeles a few months ago and is making his motion picture debut in "Tale of Two Cities," the powerful Dickens novel. He believes just like yours truly, that the filming of "David Copperfield" marked a tremendous advancement for the screen—not especially because the picture was sensationally successful but because it established a demand for literary classics in screen form.

However, I believe that the idea of motion pictures turning exclusively to such classical works is ridiculous. There always must be a balance in motion picture fare, and modern stories will continue to predominate.

STAR-LITES: With word coming this week that Myrna Loy will be Billie Burke in "The Great Ziegfeld," reunites the most popular "married couple" of the screen and creates one of the outstanding historic trios in films. . . . William Powell—Myrna Loy—Louise Rainer. It will give us a chance to see which of the two wears the best with Powell. This will be one of the most elaborate musicals ever staged for pictures, and the cast literally outshines anything in the past. Besides the three mentioned above, there are: Virginia Bruce, Harriet Hooton, Frank Morgan, Ann Pennington, Reginald Owen, Nat Pendleton, Ray Bolger and Gilda Gray. . . . Casting for "Romeo and Juliet" has begun and as yet no Romeo has been signed, but your correspondent has reason to believe that, handsome, young actor, Robert Taylor, who really made the pulses of the ladies fluctuate too rapidly in "Broadway Melody of 1936," will play Romeo. Edna Mae Oliver has been chosen to play the role of Juliet's maid, Robert Taylor has just been signed for the main part in "Three Live Ghosts" a story dealing with the lives of three enlisted men who escaped from a German prison camp and make their way back to London to find themselves officially "dead." For some reason they decide to remain dead. Some fun, eh?

FASHION LITES: "Storm signals ahead" says William Lambert, designer for 20th Century-Fox. His warning is not at all of the weather but of the color trend of the moment. "There hasn't been so much experimentation in color in many seasons, and while this is always an interesting and stimulating influence in fashion. . . . We have quickly grown used to the combination of "strong colors" such as revolutionary reds and blues due to the martial movement in so many parts of the world; now comes the tri-colored costume, increasing in favor, which is also an expression of a flag conscious world. It is fairly easy to combine two colors harmoniously and artistically, but the use of three must be considered carefully or many women will look like she is flying a pennant!

"For instance, consider the possibilities of a hostess gown combining celestial blue and sapphire blue on which bloom velvet flowers of an American beauty shade; or what could be done with ice blue and pale yellow velvet strongly highlighted with almond green to make a Directorate evening gown?"

DO YOU KNOW: Jean Harlow's blonde hair was once considered "not photographic," by a comedy producer who made her wear a black wig?

ON THE SET: Greta Garbo's true name is Greta Gustafsson. . . . Yet for ten years she has been known as Garbo. In all this time, few if any persons have known why she took the name of Garbo. During the past summer when she visited her home in Sweden, an ambitious Swedish newspaperman, unable to win an interview with her, spent the day tracking down the origin of her name. Garbo. Although everyone knew it was bestowed upon her by Maunitz Stiller, her first director and discoverer, the meaning of the word has been a mystery for ten years. But a diligent search through mythology has now revealed that "Garbo is a Norwegian word meaning "A mysterious being that comes out at night to dance in the moonlight."

INSIDE GOSSIP: The blonde actress who was reported to be much interested in a certain young player last week is Mary Carlisle and the object of the attention is Arthur Lake.

What well known Hollywood motion picture star, who hasn't made a picture for quite a while is now spending most of his time at Blossom Room of the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel, because of a certain young M-G-M featured player who is singing with the orchestra at this night spot. Recently he played gangster roles. That's all for today. Wait till next week.

LEGIONNAIRES DRANK 142,152 BOTTLES OF ANHEUSER-BUSCH BEER

Figures compiled today by Anheuser-Busch for the American Legion revealed that delegates to the recent Legion convention drank 142,152 bottles of beer in four days, as guests of the brewery. A bar 800 feet long and the services of seventy-five bartenders and forty assistants were required to accommodate the thirty Legionnaires and their friends. All together, 110,000 persons visited this bar and were taken through the plant, which is the world's largest brewery.

Anheuser-Busch were prepared to serve even more beer, but two factors held the consumption to 142,152 bottles. One was that on the fourth day rain, which held the attendance down to 5000, drove the visitors indoors, but even then 13,200 bottles were consumed. The second was that the seventy-five bartenders were constantly running out of glasses many of which were kept as souvenirs the minute they were empty. 15,000 glasses were ordered to take care of the visitors. Of the 15,000, 13,000 were carried home as mementoes of the party. Two dance orchestras played continuously, keeping the gaiety of the visitors at fever pitch.

Brewery officials were gratified to report that there was not the slightest evidence of disorder at any time during the American Legion's visit.

At last a new use for the bodies of old automobiles. A new application of just doing it

ACCORDING TO STORY, LONG WAS KILLED BY BODY GUARD, NOT WEISS

A most interesting story of the manner in which Senator Huey Long of Louisiana met death comes to Kansas City by way of Virginia, where a visiting Kansas City woman received the purported details from a relative in New Orleans.

According to this story, Long had determined to get rid of Circuit Judge C. H. Pavy, father-in-law of Dr. C. A. Weiss, Jr., the man said to have shot the Senator by reshaping the judicial district so that he could not be re-nominated. It is related that Long also conceived the idea of undermining the standing of the jurist by spreading the report that he was of Negro descent.

When Dr. Weiss became aware of this purpose, it is said, he determined to see Long and ask that he refrain from thus stigmatizing the family. The doctor had two children and a story that their grandfather was a Negro would, the doctor felt, reflect seriously on them.

He is said to have gone to the state house that Sunday night and to have been denied admittance to the room in which the Senator sat while directing the proceedings of the Legislature. Weiss remained in the corridor, hoping to be able to speak to Long when he left the office.

Presently the Senator appeared, the narrative goes, and Weiss stepped over to him and asked him not to permit circulation of the story about his father-in-law, mentioning his own children. Long is reputed to have made a most insulting reply, upon which Weiss struck him in the face, cutting his lip. Thereupon, the story continues, the Senator's bodyguard turned loose with their guns, riddling Weiss.

One of the shots is said to have gone wild and pierced Long's body.

Weiss, it is declared never drew his pistol during the encounter. As his only offense was the striking of Long, the bodyguard was, it is insisted, guilty of murder. Weiss apparently carried his pistol when he went to the capitol, and it is said Long's friends removed it from his pocket, fired it several times and left it lying on the corridor floor in order to justify their own firing.

Whether or not this story of the fatal shooting is correct, it is a fact that there has been general failure to understand why Dr. Weiss should have sought the life of the Senator. He was a man of calmness in his daily life, had never mixed in the fierce political quarrels of the state, and must have known that any attempt to slay Long meant certain death. In clearing up this phase of the matter, at least, the story seems to have some logic, as it explains an act which people generally have never been able to understand. — Missouri Democrat.

YOUNG PEOPLE STILL FAR SHORT OF GOAL FOR C. E. MEET FUNDS

Christian Endeavor leaders collected $30 in a drive conducted Saturday for funds to finance a state convention here November 7, 8, 9, and 10. The $216 collected by now is almost $300 short of the goal.

Kemper Bruton, general chairman of the convention, announced Monday that W. F. Woehlecke is now constructing of artificial flowers a large Marine Anchor, which will hang suspended in the center of the Methodist church, where all convention sessions will be held. The symbol suggests faith and loyalty. Small ones will be awarded to each society in the state registering twelve or more delegates.

Mr. Bruton also said that merchants will be asked to make window displays appropriate for the convention, with the Endeavor's colors, red and white, predominating. Awards will be given for most distinctive exhibits.

Additional features of the Christian Endeavor convention include three open evangelistic meetings in Railroad park; trips to Sikeston gins and to the cotton oil mill; orations on "For Me, I Choose Christ" by young people between 16 and 18 years old, the winner to gain a full year's scholarship to Missouri Valley College at Marshall and half-year scholarships thereafter if he remains on the school honor roll.

Uniformed ushers will conduct delegates to their seats to hear many noted speakers, including Miss Helen Topping, Kagawa's private secretary in Japan; Harry Harlan, a Kansas City Y. M. C. A. leader; the Rev. Robert M. Myers, pastor of the Hickman Mills, Mo., Christian church; and the Rev. Russel Paynter, minister of the Memorial Presbyterian church in St. Louis.

THREE HURT WHEN CAR LEAVES ROAD AT CURVE

Three Sikeston women were painfully injured at midnight Sunday when their car left Highway 61 and plunged into a ditch near Steele.

They are Mildred Waters, Muriel Hurt, and Pat Murphy. All of the young women suffered back injuries. Miss Hurt also sustained lacerations on her face, and Miss Murphy's body was paralyzed from the hips down. Dr. McKinney, a Caruthersville physician who treated the three, did not know if the affliction would be permanent.

The women were riding in Miss Waters' Plymouth coupe when they failed to see a curve in time to remain on the road. John Albritton and Herbert Bandy went to Dr. McKinney's office to take the women in their ambulance to the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau, where they were received at 5 o'clock Monday morning.

Fertilizer Makes Legumes Better Nitrogen Factories

Legumes are natural nitrogen factories—but their production may be increased with the use of phosphorus and potash.

Many farmers grow legumes as green manure crops because they collect nitrogen from the air and put it into the soil. Applications of phosphorus and potash to legumes stimulate their growth enabling them to produce more nitrogen than if they did not receive these fertilizers materials. These are not wasted as they are available for the next crop as corn or cotton when the legumes are plowed under and decay.

By this method the farmer gains the use of three fertilizer materials for other crops although he applied only two.

Phosphorus and potash applied to legumes when grown as a green manure crop help to produce heavier yields of corn and other crops than if the same fertilizer is applied directly to the crops, tests of the United States Department of Agriculture show.

Brighten Your Shadows

A piece of white cardboard brightened this shadowed face

HAVE you ever tried taking a picture of your best girl—or your wife—wearing her new broad-brimmed summer hat and find, when you see the finished print, that her pretty face turned out to be an unattractive dark shadow? Of course you have. Who hasn't?

Now there is really no excuse for this common error in amateur photography. You can't prevent the appearance of the shadow but you can lighten it considerably in the picture by using a reflector to cast or reflect the necessary light under the brim of the hat and on her face.

Please don't gasp and think about spending a lot of money for a reflector for it isn't necessary. A satisfactory, efficient reflector can be had for practically nothing. Any number of things will serve you; a piece of white paper about three feet square, a white cloth of the same dimension or even a pillow slip or white towel, if the chancellor of the linen closet will let you get away with it, will serve admirably.

What's the trick? There's no trick to it at all. This is all you have to do. Suppose we use the pictures of the comely young lady above as an example.

Both snapshots were taken noon with the sun's rays striking the top of the hat. Notice the picture to the right; how the brim of the hat casts a dark shadow over the face. The picture to the left, however, shows the pleasing results by using a reflector to cast or reflect the sun's rays under the hat. The reflector in this instance was a piece of white cardboard about two feet square held about four feet from the subject and tilted so as to reflect the sun's rays on her face and under the hat.

If there is not a third party to hold a reflector it can be placed on a chair at the proper angle or tilted against a stick placed in the ground. Be sure, however, that the reflector does not appear in the view finder of your camera.

This is only one of the many ways a reflector may be used to advantage in getting better pictures. By giving a little thought to your snapshotting you can readily detect where a reflected light on your subject may brighten over-shaded spots in outdoor or indoor picture making. Try it.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

In the South, fertilizer mixtures of 0-10-4 and 0-9-4 applied at the rate of 400 pounds an acre are generally satisfactory for increasing the growth of the Austrian winter pea and other legumes grown as a green manure crop preceding corn and cotton.

FEARS AMERICA IS NOT SAFE DURING WARTIME

A fear that America is not safe during a foreign war, despite the recent neutrality laws, and a suggestion that this country has not done its share in preserving peace are expressed by Clarence Poe, president of the Progressive-Farmer-Ruralist company in the October issue of the magazine.

"In this day of airplanes, steamships, radio, etc.," he writes, "the nations have become so close together that for one great nation to try to stay out of a war when most other nations are involved is like trying to keep neutral in a crowded room with a free-for-all fight going on all around you."

Under circumstances very like those which drew the United States into the world war, this country might easily become involved again, Mr. Poe thinks. "There are going to be disputes between nations," he states "and these disputes are going to be settled by war . . . so long as no potent machinery is available to settle them in peace. In the fury and hate and madness of war's 'free-for-all fight in a crowded room' we shall inevitably suffer injuries or insults sooner or later that will drag us into war. And this is true regardless of all our pious resolutions to stay out—and will be true as long as there is no effective Supreme Court of Nations to safeguard our rights."

Considering the great cost of war in money and lives, "it is appalling to consider how little America is willing to do to co-operate with other nations to prevent war."

"Suppose the peace treaty did need revision—as it did. Suppose the League of Nations did need improvement—as it did. If the United States had gone into the League, all the power of the United States could have been thrown into efforts for needed change and betterment. The power of the United States could have been used to compel that disarmament by France, England, and Italy which the treaty promised in return for German's own disarmament. The failure of the United States to co-operate with the League on some basis (even if with the reservations Senator Lodge demanded) is probably responsible for Japan's willingness to defy the League and enter upon a policy of bullying, dominating, and absorbing China—a policy which may yet plunge the nations into another war as horrible as that of 1914-18 even if Mussolini's own action does not lead to that result. If the United States had entered the League and the World Court we do not believe either Japan or Mussolini would have defied or ignored them. Whether this is precisely true, whether instead, the United States would have become more immersed in foreign affairs than it is now, is still an open question.

LEGION RENTS ROOMS FOR USE THIS WINTER

Members of the Henry Mel-drum Post 114 of the American Legion have rented two back rooms on the McCoy-Tanner building's second floor for use this winter.

While one of the rooms is re-

The Legion will first meet in the new quarters on November 11, after they have been redecorated. Members of the Auxiliary will also use the McCoy-Tanner building rooms.
